Little Progress Seen in UAW, GM Negotiations

By GENE SCHROEDER

DETROIT (AP) — Layoffs mounted and local plant negotiations dragged today in a nationwide strike of the United Auto Workers Union against General Motors, the world's largest automobile manufacturer.

As the walkout entered its 13th day, there was little progress reported in local-level bargaining on union demands at individual plants.

Only two new local working agreements had been negotiated since announcement Monday of a tentative national contract settlement on both economic and non-economic issues. This brought the total number of local agreements to 15 out of some 130 bargaining units.

Production cutbacks at GM parts and accessories plants totaled more than 20,000 bringing the number idled in the strike to 280,000. Latest to be sent home were 350 workers at

American Motors Faces Auto Union Dispute

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp., and the United Auto Workers Union reportedly disagreed today over the future role of a unique profit-sharing provision in their labor contract.

Douglas Fraser, head of the UAW negotiating team, told newsmen the company had made an economic offer to the union paralleling the ones accepted from General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

But, Fraser said, the AMC offer included a proposal charging the costs of higher pensions and improved benefits for retirees to the profit-sharing plan, under which a percentage of net profits is placed in a fund which buys stock for the company's 26,000 UAW-represented workers.

Fraser said both sides had agreed on the principle of profit sharing. The union, however, is not willing to accept a proposal which would charge some of the economic costs off to the fund, he said.

Also rejected by the UAW was a company plan to postpone until next year additional vacation and holiday time for the workers.

The AMC contract with the union expires Oct. 15.

Five Yanks Die as Copter Is Shot Down in Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. Army helicopter with five Americans and a Vietnamese aboard was shot down in flames 13 miles west of Saigon today, crashing in the midst of a powerful Viet Cong unit.

All six men aboard the helicopter were presumed killed.

Ground troops who fought their way to the burned wreckage found three bodies charred beyond recognition. The other three bodies could not be found.

While it was presumed they also had been killed, there was some possibility they had survived and been captured by the Viet Cong.

A second helicopter also was downed nearby, but its crew reportedly survived and was repairing the aircraft for a flight back to its base.

The two helicopters, armed with rockets and machine guns, had been providing strafing support for a small operation by Vietnamese ground troops. Other helicopters in the flight saw one machine burst into flames and hurtle into the midst of the enemy below.

The helicopters could not fire into the Viet Cong for fear of hitting any American survivors. Later helicopters and fighter bombers pounded Viet Cong positions around the site but avoided the crash site itself.

Aboard the burned helicopter were three American officers, two enlisted men and the Vietnamese observer. Troops who entered the area said the guns and rockets of the helicopter had been destroyed in the fire.

The pace of war elsewhere in the nation also remained hot.

The Saigon government reported early Tuesday that a large Viet Cong assault force

Summit House Corner Settles By Six Inches

There has been some settling at the southwest corner of the Pikes Peak summit house during its first year of existence — but city officials feel there is no cause for alarm.

Settling at that corner of the $440,595 structure has been about six inches, which has also caused thin cracks to some of the walls in that area.

C. L. Heitman Jr., assistant to City Manager John M. Biery, said some of the cracked panels can be replaced. Some difficulties had been anticipated because the structure was built on an alpine ice field.

The building was so constructed that the "foundation system would be strong enough to span over any failures, thus providing a stable overall floor construction," he said.

"We are going to wait and see what happens this winter," he added. "We are not alarmed about it."

The alpine ice field atop the mountain was carefully studied prior to any construction, according to Architect Carlisle B. Guy. Test holes were bored.

The composition on top of Pikes Peak generally involves layers of disintegrated and broken granite, interspersed with

Witness Tells Of Robbery at Drug Store

A witness in District Court Tuesday testified that all the while a loaded gun was being pressed against her ribs during a hold-up she could hear the hammer being clicked back and forth.

The witness, Mrs. Janice Kleinschmidt was appearing for the prosecution in the case against Bennie Thomas Martinez, 30, formerly of 609 S. Sierra Madre St., one of three codefendants charged with aggravated robbery and conspiracy.

The trio is alleged to have held up the Self Service Drug Store, 506 W. Colorado Ave., March 17 and escaped with a quantity of drugs. Martinez has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity and though he has been found legally sane by Dr. Richard L. Conde, he is still standing on both pleas.

Mrs. Kleinschmidt is an employee of the store and she told the court Tuesday that immediately after the stickup in which two men took part, one of them attempted to make her come with them but she managed to break away.

The first witness for the prosecution was Jack W. Hoffman, owner of the store who also said that a gun was stuck into him by Martinez's companion. "I had no way of knowing he had no intention of using it," the witness said from the stand. He related how he was commanded to hand over a quantity of medicines and drugs, 11 bottles in all, which were produced as evidence.

Hoffman also said he saw Martinez point his gun at the head of a woman customer and then push it into Mrs. Kleinschmidt's ribs. He added he could hear the clicking as the defendant toyed with the hammer. The witness testified the two men were wearing stockings over their faces but he was still able to pick them out from a line-up later in City Jail.

As a land agent for the Santa Fe Railroad, he visited Colorado Springs and brought his family to the Cliff House in Manitou Springs for vacations in the 1880s. At this time he was also instrumental in the development of Cascade as a resort community, and Mrs. Armstrong and her brother and

Thousands Go Back to Storm Wrecked Land

By ROBERT ROWAND

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Thousands of families were back to pick up the pieces of their hurricane shattered homes in coastal Louisiana today and more were going despite warnings to wait.

They didn't care about lack of electricity, water, sewage, telephones or other conveniences.

Some slipped in by back roads. Some went by boat. Others cut across sugar cane fields flattened by Hurricane Hilda last week.

Fishermen, businessmen, housewives, oil field workers, trappers and others wanted to get to the job of restoring their possessions to some semblance of what they were before the storm's onslaught.

A. L. Stansbury, owner of a sporting goods and liquor store at Franklin, summed it up: "I had beer and soft drinks in my place, so I didn't need water.

"I can go a couple of days without food, and a man can get by without sewage.

"Having electricity doesn't mean anything to me. I've got

Chenoweth Says Congress, High Court in Conflict

For the first time in his long experience, Congress and the Supreme Court have entered into open conflict, J. Edgar Chenoweth, representative of the 3rd District told the luncheon meeting of the West Side Rotary Tuesday afternoon.

Chenoweth pinpointed the issues that are placing Congress and the Supreme Court at odds as the apportionment bill, civil rights, the prayer question and medicare.

"There is more involved than just the issues themselves," said Chenoweth, "it's a matter of the constitutional separation of the functions of these two bodies," and he went on to state that he thought the Supreme Court had usurped rights for itself that it was not entitled to.

On the matter of apportionment, Chenoweth said he proposed that each state apportion one representative without regard to population, and that Congress wants the whole matter put to the vote of the people, for possible constitutional amendment, but, he said, "it's gotten watered down and nothing has been done."

Chenoweth admitted the possibility that the President would call a special session of Congress to resolve some of the issues that are presently stalemated.

Chenoweth went on to repeat remarks he made a week or so ago on the matter of school prayer.

"We recognize God in many ways," he said. "Congress opens each day with a prayer and so does the Supreme Court, but they are seeking to remove God from our national life."

Chenoweth said that he doubted if the framers of the Constitution ever though such an issues would arise. He said that he thought it odd that school children should not be exposed to the same sort of public religious observance as Congressmen and members of the Supreme Court.

"The next thing," he said, "they will remove God from coins, from stamps and from the Pledge of Allegiance."

Chenoweth remarked that the medicare bill which the House passed, which included medi-

Warren Commission Cost May Run Over $1 Million

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON —(Special) — One important job still awaits action by the special commission that investigated the assassination of President Kennedy.

This is passing on the quite considerable cost of the 10-month-long probe.

Officially, the commission is no longer in existence. When its seven members met with President Johnson to present their voluminous findings, they expressly asked that they be formally "discharged" to signify the conclusion of their work. The President promptly complied, and the group was dissolved.

But the essential problem of expenditures still awaits disposal.

That will be considered at a special meeting to be convened by the chairman, Chief Justice Warren, in the next several weeks.

Estimates of the total cost range from $500,000 to more than $1 million.

The money came from the contingency funds Congress annually votes the President for unanticipated outlays.

The commissioners are still largely in the dark on just how much their inquiry cost. A detailed report is to be presented for consideration and approval at the forthcoming special meeting.

At the start of the investigation, the group unanimously voted to leave the hiring and spending in the hands of Chief Justice Warren and J. Lee Ranking, solicitor general in the Eisenhower Administration, whom Warren selected as general counsel. Under this arrangement, Rankin actually handled the purse strings.

Several commission sources are indicating his remuneration will come to around $25,000.

The sizable staff included 12 assistant counsels, 14 so-called "clerical assistants," some of whom were fledgling attorneys and accountants, and a large number of stenographers and other office help provided by the General Accounting Office.

Still undetermined is whether the cost of the GAO workers and the numerous agents supplied by the FBI and Secret Service will be absorbed by these agencies or charged to the White

Tresh's Homer Gives Yankees 5th Inning Lead

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tom Tresh's two-run homer and a run-scoring single by pitcher Whitey Ford gave the New York Yankees a 4-2 lead over the St. Louis Cardinals after two innings of twoday's World Series opener.

Tresh connected in the second inning following a lead-off single by Elston Howard. His homer overcame a 1-0 Cardinal lead and the Yankees collected three more hits off Ray Sadecki before he got out of the inning with the help of a great throw by left-fielder Lou Brock.

Joe Pepitone grounded out after Tresh's homer, but Clete Boyer singled to center, stole second and came home on Ford's single. Phil Linz drew a walk, moving Ford to second, and Bobby Richardson singled to left. But Brock's throw to catcher Tim McCarver retired Ford at the plate.

The Cardinals toucned Ford for a run in the first inning on singles by Brock and Dick Groat and Ken Boyer's sacrifice fly. They added a run in the second on a single by Mike Shannon, a ground-out and Sadecki's single.

CARDINALS FIRST (1)

Ford's first pitch to Flood was high for a ball. Boyer threw out Flood. Brock, after fouling off five consecutive pitches, singled sharply to right for the first hit of the game. Groat swung at Ford's first pitch and singled sharply past Pepitone, Brock going to third. Brock scored on

Nasser Holds Tshombe as Hostage in Egypt Capital

CAIRO (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government was reported holding Congolese Premier Moise Tshombe a hostage today until his government calls off gendarmes surrounding the United Arab Republic's embassy in Leopoldville.

Tshombe abandoned his attempt to attend the conference of nonaligned nations Tuesday night after the conference told him he would not be admitted. He said he would leave for home immediately.

However, the newspaper Al Ahram, which has close links to Nasser, reported the U.A.R. government had told Tshombe he would remain in the guarded Aruba Palace on the outskirts of Cairo until the U.A.R. Embassy in the Congolese capital was freed.

Reports from Leopoldville Tuesday said gendarmes surrounded the U.A.R. Embassy and halted all movement in and out of the building. The reports said the action was taken to protect the embassies from mob action that was feared because of Tshombe's treatment in Cairo.

The Algerian Embassy also was cordoned off, Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella having been a leader in the move to bar Tshombe from the nonaligned conference.

Al Ahram said President Nasser's adviser on African affairs, Mohamed Fayek, called on Tshombe to inform him he would have to remain in Cairo.

"Tshombe was stunned," the paper said Fayek reported.

Barry Charges LBJ Delegated Atom Authority

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

Barry Goldwater says President Johnson has delegated authority for emergency use of nuclear weapons to the supreme commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Republican presidential nominee said Tuesday that while Johnson was denouncing him for suggesting the NATO commander be given this authority, the administration already had taken the step he proposed.

"The voters of the nation should be concerned by the spectacle of a president who, as Lyndon Johnson did, would deliberately misstate the facts regarding the awesome question of nuclear responsibility just to score a political opponent," Goldwater said.

In his speech before some 500 United Press International editors and publishers, Goldwater made in public a charge he had stated privately for some weeks.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said: "I have always deplored . . . the injection into a political campaign of sensitive matters that touch upon our national security."

But Eisenhower added, in a statement Tuesday from Gettysburg, Pa., "The public is entitled to a knowledge of all the facts that could safely be revealed in this matter."

Goldwater said Johnson already had given the NATO com-

Johnson Claims Barry's Farm Plan 'Disaster'

By FRANK CORMIER

DES MOINES (AP) — President Johnson, taking direct aim at votes in the corn belt, said today Barry Goldwater's farm proposals would spell disaster for American agriculture.

Calling for broader farm price supports, Johnson said "we have come too far as a people united by common agreement and common principles to be diverted by heartless prescriptions of economic nonsense."

Without once mentioning Goldwater by name Johnson contended the farm program espoused by the Republican presidential candidate would end price supports and strike "a devastating blow to the heart of the American economy."

The President thus was repeating in the Midwest a campaign appeal he first voiced Tuesday night in tobacco-growing North Carolina.

Des Moines was the first scheduled stop on Johnson's biggest campaign tour yet — a six-day journey that takes him into at least 11 states from Ohio to California. Tonight his first nationwide campaign telecast, a

'Prudent Diet' May Reduce Heart Attacks

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Seven years ago, more than 800 middle-aged men began following a "prudent diet" aimed at preventing heart attacks.

They became volunteer members of New York City's "Anti-Coronary Club." Their diet changes were designed to reduce the amount of cholesterol — a fatty material blamed for clogging up heart arteries — in their bloodstreams.

Today, medical directors of the Anti-Coronary Club told the American Public Health Association of the results to date.

Eight of the club members have died of heart attacks.

This is a rate about one-third that of other middle-aged men also checked who did not change their eating habits.

Seven of the eight died within two years after joining the club. Only one died since then, during years "when presumably the diet had a fuller opportunity to exert its physiological effect."

"It seems reasonable" to attribute the significantly lower rate of heart attacks among club members to the diet, said Dr. Seymour H. Rinzler, a heart specialist.

Men following the food advice had within a year significantly lower levels of cholesterol in their blood than the men not

International 'Food Code' Is Being Designed

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The groundwork is being laid for an international code designed to ban impure foods, questionable additives and possibly harmful residues of pesticides from grocery stores and markets around the world.

The establishment of such standards is a major project of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization and the U.N. World Health Organization, with the United States playing an active role in the movement.

The food standards, when developed, would be voluntary in nature -- that is, there would be no supplementary laws in the United States or other countries requiring that they be followed by food canners and other processors.

International food and health officials believe that enlightened self-interest would encourage many processors to abide by the standards because they could increase sales both in their home countries and in export markets.

Because they would be voluntary in nature, it would not be necessary that the code be set forth in a treaty among governments, subject, in this country, to Senate ratification.

An international meeting on the subject of world food standards has just been concluded in

Sub Gets Caught In Fishing Gear

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A lobster boat captain came back to port Tuesday and told how he'd caught a submarine. Or was it the other way around?

Capt. Andrew Tobiasen of Margate, skipper of the 80-foot Serina II, said that on Sept. 28, a submarine became caught in his boat's gear and dragged the Serina II a quarter of a mile stern-first.

The submarine, which he said was American, then surfaced, disentangled itself and went on its way.

Tobiasen said he lost several hundred pounds of lobsters when his drag net was destroyed.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D.,Ph.D.

Adam and Eve led a sterile, monotonous existence until they had to worry. For worry has been the greatest boon to civilization. It is simply trial - and - error thinking about problems with an emotional flavor. Smart people worry; stupid people seldom do, so worriers usually have high I.Q. but often lack an "Agenda Plan."

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE T-496: Dr. Robert B. Pierce is the orator who occupies the pulpit in the Chicago Temple.

A few weeks ago he said he caught a bus across the Chicago loop.

It was fairly crowded so he had to stand. And at the next corner, the bus stopped to let a woman get on.

She had a heavy suitcase. But after paying her fare, she still stood, holding that suitcase.

"Lady," the driver finally remonstrated, "why don't you set that suitcase down, for the bus will carry it now?"

Then Dr. Pierce used that incident as the theme of his sermon.

For he mentioned that far too many business executives keep on worrying when they get home from the office and should lay their worries down.

The same idea is elaborated in my textbook entitled "Guidebook for Counseling" for I used this same suitcase analogy with reference to worry.

Worry is really a very beneficial thing for mankind since it represents trial-and-error thinking about problems that have an emotional aspect.

Thus, it is really smart to worry! If a father knows that his daughter is out on a date with a hot rodder who violates the speed laws, then that father would be stupid if he did not worry.

"Oh, Dr. Crane," many thoughtless adults will exclaim, "wouldn't it be paradise if we could just banish all worry from this earth?"

Well, that's exactly the kind of paradise in which Adam and Eve were placed.

But they were then just specimens in a zoo called the Garden of Eden.

As far as the Bible indicates, they had no fun and no feeling of exhilaration at working out problems or solving dilemmas or seeing plants grow which they had first started as seeds.

It wasn't till they had to worry a solution to earning their own bread and sewing their own clothes, that they ever became human beings!

So never abhor worry! Like fire, it has been a great boon to progress when properly used.

Just be sure you learn how to worry wisely. That means, budget your worries and then learn how to lay them down at stipulated times.

Chronic medical "Worry Warts" have a right to fret until they have visited a physician.

But if he then tells them they have no cancer, then such "Worry Warts" should lay that worry down, like the woman with the suitcase on the bus.

Let the doctor carry your medical worries, much as the bus or train will carry your luggage while traveling.

And one of the quickest ways to budget your worries is to make an agenda or detailed work outline for the coming week. List major and minor tasks.

Then cross them out as soon as you have completed them.

If you have thus tackled today's item on your agenda and finished it, don't fret about tomorrow's until tomorrow arrives.

Enjoy your evening. Use it as a brief vacation before you tackle the budgeted work items for tomorrow.

So send for my booklet "How to Control Emotions," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Lilienthal Says U.S. Planned Poison Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — David Lillienthal says the United States was ready to use poison gas against the Japanese late in World War II, but dropped the idea because the British feared it might trigger a similar attack on England by the Germans.

Lillienthal, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said the late Gen. George C. Marshall, wartime U.S. Army chief of staff, reported this to him and several other atomic officials in June 1947.

Lilienthal said Marshall made "no mention of the fact that international law forbade its (poison gas) use."

The report came in a new book, "The Journals of David E. Lilienthal: The Atomic Energy Years 1945-50" (Harper & Row).

Queen to Start Her Voyage To Quebec

By MAX HARRELSON

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II concludes her visit to the maritime province of Prince Edward Island today after an evening of relaxation at a royal variety performance by some of Canada's top talent.

Her second day in Charlottetown included an appearance at a children's rally, a state dinner given by Provincial Premier Walter Shaw and a grand ball.

She was to board the royal yacht Britannia at midnight for a two-day voyage up the St. Lawrence River to Quebec.

The queen appeared to enjoy the variety show immensely. She applauded freely, and at the end of the performance she and other members of the roya party went backstage to greet the performers.

The evening was a glittering event, attended by high-ranking Canadian officials and 1,000 leading citizens. It was held in a plush new theater in Charlottetown's elaborate arts complex, known as the Fathers of Confederation Center.

The queen wore a white floor-length evening gown and a white mink stole. Her hair was crowned by a diamond tiara. She and Prince Philip sat in the royal box in the balcony. Nearby were Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and Governor General Georges Vanier.

The emphasis of the show was on Canada, with folk music and songs portraying Canadian history and tradition. Much of the humor also had a Canadian overtone. One joke told by Comedian Dave Broadfoot began by referring to the recent visit of President Johnson to Canada to observe the conclusion of the Columbia River power treaty.

"In 1967," he said, "President Johnson may sell Canada back to us."

Lorne Greene, Canadian star of the television show Bonanza, was master of ceremonies.

"I've never seen you so dressed up," the queen said backstage to Greene, who was in white tie and tails.

"Do you watch the show?" Greene asked her.

"Oh, yes," she replied, "always on the weekends, with the children."

Comedian Anna Russell, who did a song in which she snorted, squealed and gave a Bronx cheer, said the queen told her: "I can make those noises, but I daren't do it with a tiara on."

Prince Philip advised the Travelers, a group of folk singers, to go to England.

"Now's the time to come because the Beatles are on the wane," he told them.

Jack Ruby Cannot 'Understand' Report

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby believes the world still thinks he helped kill President John F. Kennedy despite the Warren Commission's report, his chief lawyer, Clayton Fowler, said Tuesday.

Fowler told Ruby in the county jail that the commission found he had no part in the assassination and was not involved in any way with Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin whom Ruby shot Nov. 24.

"It appears there has been a further deterioration of his condition," the lawyer said.

Fowler said he felt Ruby "lacks the mental capacity" to understand the report's significance.

Security Risks Blasted by Solon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Milward L. Simpson, R-Wyo., charged Tuesday that the State Department employs "at least 15 top-level" persons who were among 250 listed by the late Scott McLeod, State Department security officer during the Eisenhower administration, as having records about which there were "serious questions."

Simpson called on the State Department to investigate and re-evaluate the records of the 15 to determine whether they represnt scurity risks. He did not resent security risks. He did not name any of the 15 persons.

The State Department said it would have no comment.

Leader of Mass Break Sentenced

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Charles David Gregory, who led a mass break from the Dallas County jail during the Jack Ruby murder trial, drew 50 years in prison Tuesday for his part in an $8,000 holdup.

A jury of 10 men and 2 women convicted him of robbing a Dallas supermarket in January.

Gregory, 20, admitted he was in the getaway car but insisted he didn't know his companion planned to rob the store.

As one of seven prisoners breaking jail March 6, he brandished a pistol carved from soap and forced Ruth Thornton, a court clerk, to walk with him past spectators opposite the courtroom where Ruby was on trial.

An unarmed deputy sheriff Charles Player, grabbed Gregory outside and returned him to jail.

JURY RULES

LONGMONT (UPI)— A coroner's jury Monday ruled the death of a 10-month-old boy here last Thursday was due to natural causes. The child was Robert Castillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Castillo, seasonal workers on a farm north of Longmont. The jury did find, however that the child had been mistreated. Boulder pathologist Dr. John Rowe said the child was asphyxiated during the night.

Desk Sergeant Tries to Keep Soldiers Mature

By WERNER ZWICK
United Press International

"Desk Sergeant Green" is trying to keep American GI's out of trouble in Europe.

Green is a fictitious, square-jawed mixtuer of Dick Tracy and Beetle Bailey's first sergeant, who squints at soldiers rfom posters and the pages of the "Army in Europe" magazine camouflaged as the hero of a cartoon serial.

Soon he also will distribute his free advice over the air — courtesy of AFN (American Forces Network in Europe) — the Army promised.

"Green" is part of the Army's effort to give GI's a chance "to demonstrate their maturity and reliability while stationed in Europe," an Army release said.

"The secondary and more speicfic object of the program is to assist the soldiers to stay out of trouble."

The Army does not deny that its soldiers, often bored by too much leisure, do occasionally get into trouble. Informed sources said the program also was aimed at reducing incidents that bear a racial overtone.

In a recent issue of "Army in Europe," Sgt. Green relates the "true story" (only the names and places have been changed) of four GI's who cheated a cabbie out of his fare.

They also "knocked him unconscious," Green recalls and tells how they were identified and punished: "the penalty; imprisonment and loss of two-thirds of their pay for five months."

Other posters the Army is sticking on bulletin boards under the "Stay Out of Trouble" program show two bushy-browed GI's toasting a well-proportioned fraulein with foaming beer steins.

Below is the warning in big black letters: "Avoid trouble." 50 per cent of incidents between soldiers and European civilians begin in retail drinking establishments."

An illustrated "Stay Out of Trouble" pamphlet issued to all soldiers who arrive in overseas posts also tells GI's the do's and don'ts of Army life.

One of the illustrations, showing two underworld characters pulling a .45 and a switchblade, respectively, says: "Only cowards carry illegal weapons."

Another cartoon, entitled "You Can't Do This To Me," pictures two grim, obviously Teutonic policemen carrying off a tiny GI by the padding of his jacket.

The small print below explains: "The European police have the same authority over you that your state or local police in the United States exercises."

In the pamphlet, soon to be supplemented by a crime prevention manual for military police and a troop behavior guide ofr commanders, the Army also advises soldiers to "choose your companions carefully, visit reputable placts, do not frequent unsavory cafes," and "do not deal with black marketeers."

Rebel-Held Area Regained By Congolese

BUKAVU, the Congo (AP) — The Congolese army today occupied the Kivu Province city of Uvira, held by rebel forces since mid-April.

Rebel groups were spotted fleeing to neighboring Burundi on foot or aboard pirogues on Lake Tanganyika. Aerial reconnaissance indicated no fighting was needed to reconquer Uvira.

As soon as the troops entered Uvira, a group of white mercenaries headed toward the Roman Catholic bishop's residence where priests, nuns and European settlers had been held by the rebels.

Nuns were spotted from the air boarding trucks that were to bring them to Bukavu, 80 miles to the north.

The Congolese army also was reported to have recaptured Lodja, in western Kivu, and to have rescued 14 British men, women and children at Lulimba, Kivu.

United Nations headquarters in Leopoldville said a message reported Lodja had been wrested from the control of rebel leader Louis Lumumba, brother of the Congo's murdered first prime minister, Patrice Lumumba.

Coeds Are Told They Should Learn to Ski

By FRANK CAREY

CHICAGO (AP) — College girls who go husband-hunting on the ski slopes should be sure they also know how to ski, a Harvard expert on sports injuries says.

Dr. Thomas B. Quigley, chairman of the American Medical Association's Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports, told reporters Tuesday at the annual meeting of the American College of Surgeons

"The dean of Vassar tells me that the ski slopes are the greatest happy husband (Hunting) grounds we've got.

"And skiing can be pretty safe, if you do what the man (skiing instructor) says, and have decent equipment, and don't just shut your eyes and pray and go down the slope."

The Boston doctor was one of the participants in a symposium on the prevention and management of athletic injuries held at the surgeons' meeting.

Outlining the findings and objectives of the AMA's special committee on this subject, Quigley offered these points:

1. "Dirty" coaches — those who encourage foul play in order to win — are "fading away rapidly" from the American sports scene.

2. Football and other team trainers are mostly intelligent, well-educated individuals nowadays, and gone is the symbol of the "unshaven character with a cigar in his mouth and a towel in his hand."

3. The AMA has tried to "clean up a lot of nonsense" about the medical aspects of sports — for example, "beliefs that if you eat nothing but tomatoes you become a great track man" and beliefs that taking vitamin pills and oral enzymes will make supermen of athletes.

4. All the professional football teams of Canada have helped finance cooperative efforts of doctors, educators and coaches to reduce sports injuries, and "it would be wonderful if this could happen in the United States in the professional baseball and football field."

5. The team doctor "should have absolute authority in things medical — that is, the doctor should not coach the team, but neither should the coach nor the trainer practice medicine."

Quigley granted that contact sports have their hazards, but "the hazards of drag racing are worse than those of football . . . and I maintain that the playing field is a better place for our youth than the hot-rod automobile and the tavern."

SCHOOL SAFETY BOOKS—Staff members of the city's Traffic Engineeering Department are shown here looking over some of the material concerning what the city has done in the interests and safety of children attending 35 schools in the city. The information is being sent to school principals, PTA presidents and PTA safety chairmen, officials in key city, school, county and state agencies and others concerned with school safety. Staff members from left are, Ralph Wendland, traffic analyst; Don L. Smith, city traffic engineer; Jay Myers, assistant city traffic engineer; and Susan Grant, secretary.

Bright Orange Signs Part Of School Traffic Safety

The bright orange signs in school zones are part of the city Traffic Engineering Department's program of installing control and regulatory devices for the safety of Colorado Springs' school children.

City Traffic Engineer Don L. Smith said 35 schools are involved by these controls.

There were 390 diamond shaped orange fluorescent signs and 104 crosswalks installed. Push - button traffic signals now total 16, serving 14 schools.

The Traffic Engineering Department has prepared maps of the area in which each school is located, showing the locations and types of installations provided for children attending these schools.

Smith said a copy of these maps are being sent this week to the principal of each school and each PTA president and PTA safety chairman.

This mailing will include 35 school principals, 53 PTA presidents and 53 PTA presidents or safety chairmen.

A complete set of the maps have been stapled together in book form. These are being sent to each city council member, school board member, city, county and state enforcement agencies, municipal judge and others concerned with school safety. More than 50 of such books are being mailed.

The traffic engineer said "it is significant to note that the entire program of school signs, signals and markings is paid for solely by the city of Colorado Springs.

"Taxes collected for school operation are not used in any way for the important and continuous program of school safety conducted by the city," he added.

The Traffic Engineering Department is also engaged in a continuous education program involving school children, their teachers and principals.

Swiss Fire Air Chief For Gross Negligence

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — The Swiss government fired its Air Force commander, Col. Etienne Primault, today because of parliamentary charges of gross negligence in the purchase of French jet planes.

President Ludwig von Moos told the Council of States (upper house) the government may also take action against the chief of the Swiss General Staff, Col. Jakob Annasohn, who offered his resignation.

A parliamentary investigation committee had held the two men directly responsible for negligent handling of a $191 million order for 100 Mirage III fighter planes approved by Parliament three years ago. Switzerland now will have to spend about a fourth more and will get only 57 planes instead of 100.

sister spent much time in the area.

The family settled permanently in Colorado Springs in 1893. Mr. Heizer was mayor of the city from 1907 to 1909.

Mrs. Armstrong attended Cutler Academy and was graduated from Colorado College in 1899. She majored in Latin under Professor Gile and after her graduation, taught Latin one year at the Academy. Five Yanks Die As Copter Is Shot Down attacked a district capital near the Cambodian frontier about 140 miles west of here.

Softening up defenses for nearly an hour with fire from heavy mortars and 57mm recoilless cannon, the Communists hurled up to 400 men in several waves at about 100 government troops.

Rescue forces arrived shortly before dawn and the Viet Cong attack broke off. Seventeen defenders were killed and four were missing.

Several hours later, air force fighter bombers reportedly spotted 30 sampans carying the Viet Cong force, and destroyed all of them.

Monday, the Viet Cong wiped out a hamlet defense post west of Hoa Ta. Twenty-two defenders were missing. Farther north, in Phu Yen Province, the government said Rangers and Civil Guards pounced on a Viet Cong unit, killing 42.

On the political front, a member of Viet Nam's ruling military triumverate flew off into political exile today lowering the possibility of a new coup attempt against Premier Nguyen Khanh's government.

Lt. Gen. Tran Thien Khiem told a newsman he did not know if he would come back but that he would be out of the country for at least three months. Officially Khiem is going to Europe to thank those countries which have supported Viet Nam's anti-Communist war.

Some of the young generals who saved Khanh from an attempted military coup in September reportedly had given Khanh an ultimatum to oust Khiem and five other generals as part of a purge of the armed forces.

There was speculation that a shakeup in the top army command would start Thursday as Khanh strives to strengthen his own position and soothe some ruffled feathers.

HAY TRUCK STUCK—The Pikes Peak Avenue underpass near the Santa Fe railroad station proved the undoing this morning of another truck which couldn't quite clear the structure. This time it was a truck loaded with a little over six tons of hay driven by Cliff Corder of Calhan. There apparently was no damage outside of a broken hay chain and the inconvenience of transfering part of the load. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

SHE LIKES IT HERE

Mrs. Marina Oswald wants to become a U.S. citizen, and raise her two young daughters in this country — one of whom was born here.

The widow of President Kennedy's assassin has no desire or intention to return to Russia. All her plans are based on remaining permanently in the U.S. and obtaining citizenship as soon as she can.

That's what she disclosed in informal talks with members of the special commission that investigated her husband's crime.

The Russian-born widow, living with the family of Oswald's brother Robert, in Denton, Tex., reportedly is now worth some $75,000, and confidently expects to double that with the book she is completing and other writings.

She also contemplates lecturing. A number of offers already have been made by various groups and organizations, but were declined because her English is still hesitant. Mrs. Oswald is taking lessons to overcome this handicap, and after her book is published expects to embark on the lecture circuit.

Under the law, as the widow of a U.S. national, Mrs. Oswald would have preference in gaining citizenship.

HEADED FOR AX—MAYBE!

Jimmy Hoffa's fate as the turbulently free-wheeling boss of the Teamsters is riding on the forthcoming decision of the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on his jury tampering conviction in Chattanooga, Tenn., last spring.

If this verdict is against him, powerful forces on the Teamsters' top board are all set to press for his immediate ouster.

These international vice presidents and other officials are not going to wait for the outcome of Hoffa's virtually certain appeal to the Supreme Court. They will demand he step down at once on two grounds:

(1) The strong likelihood that if he loses in the appeals court, his prospects in the Supreme Court are extremely dim; (2) the urgent need for drastic changes in Teamster policies and relations, particularly with the AFL-CIO and Congress, which are not feasible as long as Hoffa continues as president.

Significantly, he is aware of this backstage plan. It has been spelled out to him very frankly.

Hoffa received this blunt information in silence. He gave no indication whether he would fight ouster before the Supreme Court acts, or bow to it in exchange for some retirement deal.

When his predecessor, Dave Beck, now serving a jail term, gave up the presidency, he was voted a handsome life-time pension.

Teamster insiders say Hoffa "expects the worst" from the Court of Appeals.

Also, that if it upholds his Chattanooga conviction, this will mean finis for him as Teamster boss, and he will not be able to stall or block an ouster move.

The Circuit Court's opinion is expected this month.

Once Hoffa is out of the way, the opposition has three main objectives:

Selecting a new president who in character and stature will be a distinct break from the Beck-Hoffa type.

Establishing an entirely new relationship with Congress by getting rid of Hoffa henchmen who have represented the Teamsters on Capitol Hill — and aroused much antagonism by their antics and tactics.

Regaining membership in the AFL-CIO, from which the Teamsters were expelled on corruption and other charges. This reentry may prove complicated, because of Teamster efforts to raid other unions. The AFL-CIO probably will demand specific guarantees against that before opening its doors again.

Powerful anti-Hoffa sentiment prevails in the Western Conference of Teamsters, headed by Einar Mohn, and among big New York locals. The latter flatly refused to go along with Hoffa's scheme for a national contract, and last month they won a three-year package agreement with more money and other benefits than Hoffa's pact.

Barry Charges LBJ Delegated Atom Authority

mander authority to use nuclear weapons when there is an emergency and no chance to contact the president.

Johnson has said this authority belongs only to the president.

Goldwater said the administration had been "charging me with virtual madness in suggesting that there badly needs to be a clearly understood delegation of authority in this field."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon joined the nuclear debate Tuesday.

In a news conference in Eau Claire, Wis., he called on Johnson to clarify his policy on control of nuclear weapons in event of a national emergency.

Nixon said delegating the authority "in event of a communications breakdown" had been the policy of both Eisenhower and the late President John F. Kennedy and should remain U.S. policy.

Eisenhower said he had issued his statement to clarify his remarks made Monday in New York after release of a Republican task-force report on nuclear weapons. He said his views had been misinterpreted.

The former Republican president said he was taking no position for or against the recommendations of the task-force report, adding, "Indeed, my only connection with the work of the group was a two-hour discussion."

Eisenhower said he approved the effort of the task force to clarify the U.S. position on control of nuclear weapons.

Although he deplored injection of the issue in politics, Eisenhower said, since the subject had become a topic "of partisan concern and debate, I expressed the conviction that the public is entitled to a knowledge of all the facts that could safely be revealed in this matter. The effort of the task force has been to present these facts."

In another development, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said that "without question it will be possible for tens of nations to have nuclear weapons 10 or 20 years from now."

In a recorded interview released by the Pentagon, McNamara said reduction in cost of nuclear warheads and delivery systems along with improved technology would make it possible for smaller nations to develop nuclear capabilities.

the central foundry in Bedford, Ind.

In calling the strike Sept. 25, the UAW hit only those GM plants which turn out the company's new 1965 models. Workers remained on the job at factories producing parts purchased by Ford and Chrysler, GM's chief competitors.

UAW members idled by the strike will draw their first benefits from the union's $67-million strike fund Friday.

Payments range from $20 a week for a single worker, to $25 for a married couple and $30 for a worker with children.

GM has estimated the walkout is costing some $7 million a day in lost wages, with the amount expected to climb to $9 million if a prolonged strike forces additional layoffs.

An Associated Press survey indicated the strike has solid support among the workers, some of whom expect the walkout to last several weeks.

In Arlington, Tex., Ed White, UAW committeeman in the GM body shop division of Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac assembly plant, said: "We're not making any progress. We have got a lot of local problems to settle before we can think about going back to work.

"Everybody's backing this strike movement 100 per cent. Most of us saw this thing coming."

Two pickets at the entrance to the plant, which employs some 2,800 workers, agreed the strike could continue for many weeks.

The mood of the strikers at many plants was reflected in a letter to President Johnson sent by UAW Local 166, representing the Fisher Body and Chevrolet plants at Ypsilanti, Mich.

The local said: "It is the tendency toward arrogance and the lack of human consideration on the part of the petty white collar bureaucracy at these General Motors plants that has brought on this strike.

"These workers are enraged by the subtle indignities and the haughty needling to which they are constantly subjected by some arrogant company officials."

Nasser Holds Tshombe as His Hostage

ferred through the night with members of his embassy staff and his delegation to the conference.

Tshombe had insisted on attending the conference despite a telegram from conference leaders to Congo President Joseph Kasavubu telling him he would be welcome but Tshombe wouldn't.

On Monday the Cairo airport refused to let Tshombe's chartered airliner land and he flew on to Athens. He returned early Tuesday by commercial airliner and was rushed off to the Aruba Palace. Scores of troops and security men kept him there.

Leaders of other African states who accuse Tshombe of being a stooge for the Western powers pushed through a resolution at the closed conference session Tuesday banning his attendance.

Tshombe in a letter to Nasser protested: "I am a prisoner of my host."

In a statement issued through an aide, Tshombe denounced what he called the "atmosphere inspired by certain delegates" to the 46-nation conference. He rejected the contention that his presence would interfere with attempts to end the civil war being waged in the Congo by Communist-backed rebels.

care under Social Security, got bogged down in the Senate and therefore, we have no medicare bill.

Chenoweth said that he had proposed measures to revive gold mining activities in the Cripple Creek area to augment the nation's dwindling gold supply.

"It is not possible for these mines to operate when gold is selling for $35 an ounce," Chenoweth stated, and went on to explain his proposal that the government supplement this $35 with an extra $35 so that the operations could get started and continue producing gold.

Chenoweth then briefly mentioned the problem of beef imports, saying that "our domestic industries need protecting," and he also commented on our military strength with a special reference to the situation in Viet Nam.

"I have great confidence in our military leaders," he said, and he noted that although administrations change, the continuity of military leadership does not change. In answer to a question, Chenoweth stated that "It was a great mistake trat we didn't go in and take Cuba in a matter of three hours as our military leaders indicated we could," and he said that as of now he didn't know where we stood in Cuba, but he felt that Russia still had some missiles there.

He concluded by saying that he felt we weren't getting the "real story about Viet Nam," and that the situation is more serious there than we are led to believe and that he felt the administration was "withholding information" about the real gravity of the situation.

Whites Stage Sit-in at New York School school, P.S. 149 in Jackson Heights, Queens.

Bernard Kessler, attorney for the group, the Parents and Taxpayers of Jackson Heights, said: "The mothers will have younger children with them, with their bottles, diapers and strollers, ready to be taken away in the event of arrest."

Tuesday, over the protests of the principal of P.S. 149, the mothers lined up the children outside the school and marched them past news cameramen into two vacant classrooms.

The school is the one the children would be attending, were it not for the integration program which assigned them to a nearby school that had been nearly all Negro. The parents insist it is the forced transfers out of "neighborhood" schools that they object to — not the integration of classrooms.

"I don't think the children are being hurt by this," said Mrs. Addabbo. "They're getting their first lesson in democracy. They're beginning to realize they're where they belong. The Board of Education has put a sword through the heart of Jackson Heights."

She said the children were tutored after school hours Monday and Tuesday. From school opening two weeks ago until Monday they had been among several score children kept out of public school.

A school board spokesman said that "if the parents force themselves in (the school), I will make a complaint and have them arrested."

The board also announced that parents of children absent from instruction in their proper school would be subject to prosecution for violating the state's compulsory attendance law.

A meeting called by Schools Supt. Calvin E. Gross was boycotted by civil rights groups. Afterwards, Gross said a discussion of school integration with organizers of white, citywide boycotts last month had been "very productive."

The Rev. Milton A. Galamison, a leader of two Negro boycotts of public schools last winter, said civil rights leaders had abandoned any plans for a third boycott. He said they plan, instead, a "civil disobedience tactic." He gave no details, but said it would be staged before Election Day.

Civil rights groups have urged the school board to move faster on integration programs.

The Parents and Taxpayers Coordinating Council objects to a key feature of the current program — the pairing of a largely white school with one nearby that is largely Negro.

Eight schools in Queens and Brooklyn were paired.

Rockefeller Says GOP Is 'Pledged'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says New York State Republicans are "pledged to support our candidates from Barry and Bill, right down the line, all the way and that is what we are going to do."

The governor reaffirmed Tuesday night the state GOP's support of the party's national ticket, Sen. Barry Goldwater and Rep. William E. Miller.

Rockefeller, who failed in a bid to win the GOP nomination for himsef, referred to Goldwater three times in a 10-minute speech at a regional strategy conference of Republican candidates and party leaders.

De Gaulle Finds Paraguay More Friendly

tal staged a well-organized welcome demonstration. As he rode through the streets in an open car they waved flags, shouted greetings and pelted him with red rose petals.

The scene contrasted sharply with the rock, tear gas and gun battle that erupted a few hours earlier in the industrial city of Cordoba, a Peronist stronghold in central Argentina.

At least 16 persons were wounded as armed police charged a Peronist mob that closed in on a car carrying De Gaulle and Argentine President Arturo Illia.

De Gaulle's short tour of Cordoba touched off three separate demonstrations by Peronists trying to use the French president's presence to draw attention to their campaign to bring exiled dictator Juan D. Peron back home.

Peronists broke through police lines and stopped the presidential car as it headed from the airport toward a plant that assembles Renault cars. Illia told newsmen a woman demonstrator broke a window and he cut a finger. Police dispersed the mob with clubs and dogs.

Summit House Corner Settles By Six Inches

layers of ice lenses, which vary in thickness and color.

The first lense was two feet under the surface and was about 6 inches thick, under which was about two feet of broken granite. Below that was another 18 inch ice lense and then about three feet of disintegrated granite, and this "continued as far down as test hole was drilled," which was about 14 feet, Guy said.

These lenses were of various colors, ranging from snow white to sky blue, but some were rust red and others black. Mineral deposits effected the coloring of the ice.

Being aware of these ice lense conditions, the broken rock, disintegrated gravel and ice was removed from the area under the structure and about 10 feet beyond the building lines down to a smooth and level surface "which in itself drained away from the summit and allowing for drainage," the architect said.

Suitable material from about four miles down the mountain was found and hauled to the top for compaction to a maximum 100 per cent compaction to a depth of about six feet.

This was to allow for the foundation to set on a structure to set on good bearing material and afforded an insulating blanket under the building. This also was to keep the heat from the building to penetrate into the mountain top, "hence melting the ice, with a very serious requirement to maintain the status quo of the ice lenses," he said.

On top of this gravel was applied a three-inch layer of styro-foam as another precaution to retain the heat of the building within the building and away from the ice lenses.

The foundation was then established, using large structural eye beams encased in concrete and forming a steel and reinforced concrete grid system over the entire area.

"The grid system was selected so that, should ice melt under a small area of the structure, the foundation system sould be strong enough to span over any failures Guy reported.

Heating of the building is accomplished entirely by an overhead suspension system. "It was deemed wise to lay out the system," the architect said, "so that no piping of any kind involved in the heating system would be installed under the concrete floors," thus further eliminating the chances of the ice lenses melting.

International 'Food Code' Is Being Designed

Geneva, Switzerland. The United States was represented by Nathan Koenig, an assistant to the administrator of the Agriculture Department's Agricultural Marketing Service.

The establishment of such standards in themselves would not necessarily facilitate increased trading in processed and prepared foods.

Some countries, notably in Europe, have stringent food laws and regulations that could, in some cases, even prevent trading in products meeting the contemplated world standards.

Some countries, said Raymond A. Ioanes, administrator of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service tend to use these laws and regulations to keep out good quality items that compete with those of their own farmers and processors.

Many Europeans look with great disfavor on the wide use in this country of chemical pesticides to combat plant insects and diseases. They feel that the list of approved chemicals should be kept small. They want their foods to be as naturally pure as possible.

The first international standards that may be set up are expected to cover cocoa beans, olive oil, some fruits and vegetables, mushrooms and the use of food additives. The United States is working on a set of proposed standards for frozen poultry, an item which has been moving abroad in increased numbers in recent years.

paid program taped in advance, will be aired.

Even before his departure from Washington, the White House made public the speech Johnson had prepared for delivery from the steps of the Iowa capitol in Des Moines.

It echoed, and in sections was a word-for-word copy, of one he delivered to a noisy, enthusiastic audience of 14,000 in North Carolina State College Coliseum at Raleigh.

Apparently pleased by his Carolina reception — marred only by some booing by a small knot of Goldwater supporters at Raleigh-Durham Airport — Johnson Tuesday night adlibbed a long section on freedom and strength.

Speaking about "men of little faith and voices of doom" who "say we have lost our freedoms," Johnson shouted: "I haven't lost my freedom — not a bit of it."

'Prudent Diet' May Reduce Heart Attacks

making the change, the report adds.

Among the men following the diet and aged 40 to 49, there was one heart attack for an annual rate of 196 per 100,00,000 men. Among another group of similar age not changing their eating habits there were four attacks for a rate of 642 per 100,000.

Among club men aged 50 to 59 there were seven heart attacks for an annual rate of 379 per 100,000, compared with eight attack among a smaller, non-dieting group for an annual rate of 1,331 per 10,000.

The club members reduced the total amount of fats that Americans ordinarily eat. They were told to eat about equal amounts of the three types of fats found in ordinary foods.

The prudent diet was defined as consisting of "equal amounts of meat, poultry and fish; the usually recommended amounts and types of vegetables and cereals and fruits, and the substitution of low fat dairy products for those high in fats."

There is no single cause of heart attacks, the report cautions. Diet and cholesterol are implicated, but so are such influences as obesity and high blood pressure.

Yet, it says, the study "appears to have established a reasonable basis for public health action."

Dieting alone is no cure-all, the report says, nor should it become the basis for a new "food fad."

The report continues: "while we have investigated certain effects" of food consumption, "not all the possible, long-term metabolic effects of our study diet are now known."

Dr. George Christakis, director of the New York City Health Department's Bureau of Nutrition, heads the anti-coronary study.

Iberia Parish, also hard hit, was without power and water in many places. Schools in the parish may remain closed the remainder of the week.

A spokesman for the Red Cross said early surveys indicated that 25,000 families in Louisiana and Mississippi were affected by the hurricane and the tornadoes it created.

Witness Tells Of Robbery At Drug Store

man admitted no shots were fired, that no one was hurt and that no oral threats were made. Cole commented that if any crime had been committed it was robbery and not aggravated robbery.

J. B. Williams, a customer in the store at the time of the robbery, said he followed the two men out of the door when they escaped, watched them get into a car and pointed out the vehicle to the police when they arrived who immediately gave chase.

Mrs. Williams, his wife, testified she was in her car outside the store at the time of the incident and witnessed the holdup. She immediately drove to a nearby telephone and called the police.

Police Officer Charles Davis appeared for the prosecution and told how he received a call that a holdup was in progress and immediately went to the scene with another officer and chased the escaping car.

Davis went on to say that the fleeing car collided with another at an intersection and that he and his fellow officer jumped out and found the defendant in the vehicle along with Henry Eddie Maestas, the man who is alleged to have held the gun at Hoffman and taken the drugs, and Henry Filimone Vigil.

Davis also found the 11 bottles in the car together with two loaded revolvers and the stockings.

Police Officer G. D. Gieck repeated how he and another officer interrogated Martinez and said that on March 19 received a signed confession from him which the officer read to the jury.

Martinez's co-defendant, Maestas, 28, 513 Walnut St., was scheduled to be tried Tuesday morning but the date was vacated at the last moment and the new trial is set for Dec. 1. Maestas has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. Dr. Richard L. Condit has found him legally sane but the defendant has chosen to be tried on both issues.

The third co-defendant, Vigil, 22, formerly of 609 S. Sierra Madre St., has only entered an innocent plea and is also scheduled for trial Dec. 1.

On Tuesday Cole indicated that his client would not take the stand and the court recessed late Tuesday afternoon and re-convened this morning at 9:30. Judge William M. Calvert is on the bench and Richard Webster is representing the district attorney" office.

Carson Slates Fire Prevention Week Activities

Sparking the rally for a safer place to work and live, Fire Prevention Week at Ft. Carson began Monday, with the theme being emphasized through fire drills, live demonstrations and education on fire prevention and protection.

Each of the Carson schools will have a fire drill during the week, with elementary school children receiving home fire safety check lists to be filled-out and returned for evaluation.

In addition, children will visit the post fire houses for tours and lectures on safety.

Fire Chief B. E. Barnes noted that live demonstrations will be offered all week on first aid, firefighting equipment, and the proper way to turn in fire alarms. Fire prevention will be stressed continuously.

The highlight of Fire Prevention Week here will be a damonstration by the Fire Prevention and Fire Protection Branch of the Post Engineer Section at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 6, just north of the 611th Ordnance motor pool. Thursday there will be a class on fire prevention at the Mountaineer Theater.

"Everyone on post should be fire conscious" said Chief Barnes, "and every day should be fire prevention day, not only during Fire Prevention Week, but all through the year."

Pryor was arrested Thursday night for driving 75 miles per hour in a 35 m.p.h. zone. It was his eighth traffic arrest, four of them for speeding.

Two patrolmen were indicted for bribery after Pryor complained they solicited $25 from him for ignoring a traffic violation Aug. 24. Pryor said he was studying law enforcement in college.

Ford Backs Musical Broadway Production

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Ford II says he is one backer of the musical "Sugar City," scheduled for a broadway opening next March.

The auto maker said he had $1,600 invested in the show, which will bring the French star Lilo back to Broadway for the first time since she played in "Can Can" 11 years ago. Duke Ellington has written the score.

Asked if he had ever before backed a Broadway show, Ford replied: "Two or three, but in a minor way. I don't remember their titles: none was successful though.

"It's safer to stay with something you know something about."

Students Warn U.S. Ambassador Not to Attend

By LUIS NOLI

PANAMA (AP) — Student groups have flooded the campus of Panama University with leaflets warning U.S. Ambassador Jack Hood Vaughn not to attend tonight's celebration of the school's 29th anniversary.

The leaflets warned Rector Bernardo Lombardo that the University Reform Front and the Students' Union would not tolerate the presence of an "agent of imperialism" at the celebration.

Panamanian President Marco A. Robles, cabinet ministers and the diplomatic corps have been invited to the ceremony in the university auditorium.

Meanwhile, the National Assembly held a heated debate Tuesday night on a report by the International Commission of Jurists rejecting Panama's complaint that U.S. armed forces violated human rights in the Canal Zone flag riots last January.

The debate was touched off by an opposition motion for a hearing on why Panama's National Guard took no action during the three-day disturbance in which 22 persons were killed, including 3 American soldiers.

The motion was defeated, 25-11, after nearly a score of deputies protested that it implied approval of the commission's findings.

The commission said that if the National Guard, Panama's army, had taken charge of the situation, the damage and casualties probably would not have occurred.

Socialist Deputy Carlos Ivan Zuniga charged that the commission was subsidized by the United States and therefore prejudiced against Panama.

The commission, consisting of jurists from the Netherlands, Sweden and India, made its investigation at the request of the Panama Bar Association.

Charter Pilot Gets Lost on Both Flights

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — A charter pilot made two flights within 12 hours and got lost on both trips.

"This is a fantastic tale," said Magristrate Frank Wise Tuesday after he heard the story of John Mercer, 40, a RAF flying instructor during the war and now a pilot for charter planes.

Prosecutor Keith Lawrence said Mercer took off last March from Denham, in nearby Buckinghamshire, with a party of passengers for St. Mawgan, in Cornwall.

The prosecutor said the pilot seemed to fly in various directions and somewhat aimlessly. He finally got in touch with Hurn Airport and one passenger insisted that he be landed there.

The complaining passenger got off but the others stayed aboard and eventually the plane reached its destination.

Describing the return trip, some of it in the dark, the prosecutor said:

"After some minutes it became apparent to the passengers that Mercer had lost his way again. He handed some maps to a passenger and asked for help in finding his way."

Defense attorney Peter Martin said Mercer had a glandular fever and although given a medical clearance for flying, he still was suffering from effects of the illness.

Mercer pleaded guilty to piloting a night flight without a night flying license, failing to keep a personal log of the flight and failing to satisfy himself that conditions were safe.

He was fined $490.

Filipino President Confers With LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and President Diosdado Macapagal of the Philippines wound up two days of talks Tuesday with a joint communique saying Communist China's aggressive intentions and activities "present an imminent threat in the Far East and in Southeast Asia."

The communique stressed the "unity of commitment and purpose" of the two countries in defending the non-Communist nations of Southeast Asia.

Johnson and Macapagal also agreed it is vitally important to the area to resolve the Indonesia-Malaysia dispute.

Their communique said "any armed attack against the Philippines would be regarded as an attack against the United States forces stationed there and against the United States and would instantly be repelled."

This language clarified the U.S. commitment under a mutual defense treaty with the Philippines which had been subject to some controversy in the island nation.

Barrymore In Hollywood For New Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Young John Barrymore is back in town and working after an absence of five years.

At least I think it's young John. He says that's who he is, and the Barrymore voice, slightly Italianate, sounds familiar. But it is hard to recognize him under all the foliage.

He looks like a graying Beatle. His wild thatch plus the luxuriant beard make recognition difficult. But the profile — ah, the profile. It stands out unmistakably.

He started acting at age 17 as John Barrymore Jr., the sole name-bearing heir to the great theatrical dynasty. He has undergone a number of metamorphoses since, including two marriages, to Cara Williams and Italian actress Gabriella Palazollo.

John did a number of films in his early Hollywood years, mostly as callow youths. Five years ago he left for Rome's dolce vita. His billing became John Drew Barrymore, possibly an escape from his father's overwhelming shadow.

"I don't mind if my acting is compared to him," says John. "The trouble is that people expect me to live like him."

John, now 32, is back home, perhaps to stay. What has he been doing in Italy?

"Sixteen or seventeen pictures," he reported.

Any of them good?

He shook his head sorrowfully.

Now he is anxious to show Hollywood producers what he can do. He's starting by playing a heavy in "Rawhide." Curiously enough, his last engagement here was in a "Rawhide" segment during the show's first season on the air.

Does he really expect to get jobs with the beard and Beatle cut?

"We'll see how it goes," he remarked. "With some producers it may be a drawback. But when I went in to see about the part in 'Rawhide,' they told me: 'Don't go near a barber; we want you just like that.'

"But if I encounter too much resistance, I'll have. I'm not at all proud."

Since his return, young John has been getting reacquainted with his family. He reported that his mother, former actress Dolores Costello, is well and happy, as is his sister, Dede, who chose not to enter the family trade.

Then there is John Barrymore III, his son by Cara. He's 10 and a tiger, his father said. And the profile?

"Yes, it's there," said John, "although you may have to look below several layers of freckles to find it."

Mexico's national highway network has increased 38.5 per cent in the past five years, says the American Automobile Association.

'Queen for a Day' Sues Broadcaster

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The television series "Queen for a Day" is suing American Broadcasting Co. and its subsidiary, Selmur Productions, Inc., for $5,125,000 damages, alleging conspiracy.

In a suit filed Tuesday in Superior Court, producers of the television show charged that ABC and Selmur gave other programs preferential treatment, tried to compel its sponsors to accept "Young Marrieds" as a substitute show, gave it poor and irregular time scheduling and tried, unsuccessfully, to terminate the program on four weeks' notice after it was too late to negotiate with another network.

"Queen for a Day" has been on radio since 1945 and on television since 1948.

SMOKE VICTIM

DENVER (UPI)— Luther Roshang, 69, was found dead in his South Denver apartment Monday, apparently the victim of smoke inhalation caused by a fire. Officers said Roshung was on a couch that had been set afire. The fire, believed caused by a cigarette, destroyed the couch.

Striking Teachers Ordered to Return

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP) — A Superior Court has ordered striking Pawtucket school teachers to return to their classrooms today.

Judge William H. Mackenzie issued the order against the Pawtucket Teachers Alliance Tuesday and set Oct. 14 as the date for a hearing on the school committee's request for a permanent injunction.

The city's 18 public schools were closed two days ago when the teachers struck over a salary dispute.

The alliance represents a majority of Pawtucket's 482 public school teachers. There are 11,500 pupils in . school system.

Cannel Is Not Impressed With Opinion Polls

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK — Having been dragged unwillingly into the New York race for the Senate between Bobby Kennedy and Sen. Kenneth Keating, we have come to the conclusion that there is absolutely no point in going to the barbershop.

We were in the barber chair when Bobby came campaigning down the street chair when Senator Keating came through. And both times we had to wait while everybody including the barber rushed out to shake hands with the candidate and cheer him on.

But as far as we can tell, neither visit did anything except give everybody new reasons for his original opinion and force us into a modified Genoa cut.

It is not that we object to people having opinions. On the contrary, we may not agree with what a man says, but we will defend to the death his right to say it, especially if he is standing behind us with a scissors in his hands.

But there seems to us very little profit in it.

Why fritter away a Saturday with eight or ten fellows who need a haircut when you have only to glance at the opinion polls to see what the whole country thinks about everything?

Why bother to explain yourself to your barber when his politics, like the world's is in the one word, "Next"?

Why, in fact, explain yourself to anybody when science has boiled the whole process of opinions down to a few cunningly devised questions which can be answered either Yes or No?

Well, you should not, we have concluded. Political opinions, especially if convincing, are not only a waste of time but also a sign of poor grooming.

So yesterday afternoon, on the way home from work, we stopped in at the hardware store and bought a home-haircut kit. And after dinner we handed it to the wife so that she could acquaint herself with the way it worked.

"It's quite attractive," she said. "Which end do you put the toothbrush in?"

"It's a hair clipper," we said.

"Oh yes, of course," she said. "But I thought short - haired dogs weren't supposed to . . ."

"It's a hair clipper for people," we said.

"For people?" she said. "Well, I won't have it. Not in my house. And don't hand me that soft soap about making enough money for a trip to Mexico. If you want to give haircuts, you hire a hall."

"Now, honey," we said, wondering if anybody had ever taken a poll on this sort of thing and how it could be answered yes or no.

"Look," she said after we had explained the situation, "it's all right with me. But you'll have to wait a couple of days."

"What for?" we asked.

"Look," she said impatiently, "you can't start mowing somebody's head just to satisfy his political opinions."

"It's not a political opinion," we said.

"Well, whatever it is," she said. "You have to know what you're doing. And I simply don't have time tomorrow to sit around a barbershop and watch haircuts."

Only 43 per cent of adult Americans have completed high school, the U.S. Office of Education estimates.

GOLD TIP—As a gimmick for a mining congress in New York City, who showed up as a delegate but an old-time prospector, Bad Water Bill, from Virginia City, Nev. In the photo he is slipping a gold nugget to bellhop Tommy Garaci as a tip.

Trial Date Set For Denver Woman in Court

Donna Mae Doage, 21, of Denver, pleaded innocent Monday in Municipal Court to charges of vagrancy and soliciting for purposes of prostitution, and had her trial date set for Oct. 19.

Judge Allan Asher also ordered Miss Doage's $600 bond continued until her trial date.

Kim Mary Johnson, 19, who listed her address as the Mt. Vernon Motel, was granted a continuance until Oct. 12 to enter a plea to a charge of vagrancy. Her $300 bond was also continued.

Trial dates were set Monday for others as follows:

Friday: Howard York, 33, 120 E. Pikes Peak Ave., drunkenness.

Oct. 12: Donald Goodman, 20, 314 E. Vermijo St., riotous conduct and breach of peace; Dennis Mitchell, 21, Ft. Carson, carrying a concealed weapon; Daniel Wynn, 33, 803 Prospect Lake Dr., disorderly conduct, riotous conduct, breach of peace, and drunkenness.

Oct. 19: Jewett Moe, 35, 206 S. 16th St., giving alcoholic beverages to minors; David Valadon, 20, 502 E. Pikes Peak Ave., disorderly conduct and breach of peace; Robert Recob, 46, 135 E. Colorado Ave., breach of peace; Floyd Walker, 37, Denver, disorderly conduct, riotous conduct, and breach of peace.

Oct. 26: Wiley Leathers, 25, Ft. Carson, riotous conduct and drunkenness; Susie Perkins, 56, 332 S. Conejos St., hauling trash with unauthorized equipment; Ramona Albo, 42, 12 N. 25th St., riotous conduct, breach of peace, and drunkenness; Luchious Grandison, 21, Denver, riotous conduct and breach of peace; Addie Wiseman, 46, 515 N. Tejon St., riotous conduct and breach of peace.

Judge Asher ordered warrants issued for the following men who failed to appear in court: Robert O'Neal, 34, 511 N. Royer St., charged with riotous conduct and breach of peace; Arthur Olive, 42, County Farm, drunkenness; James Lee, 21, Ft. Carson, riotous conduct and breach of peace, and Ernest Albo, 39, 2605½ W. Colorado Ave., riotous conduct and breach of peace.

On requests by three wives, Judge Asher dismissed charges they had lodged against their husbands as follows: Paul Chavez, 22, 408 N. New System Lawn Watering Announced

A new subsurface lawn watering system is being distributed in this area. A network of parallel rows of tough and specially perforated Marlex polyethylene pipe is laid in a bed of pea gravel a few inches under the top surface of the lawn.

When the valve is turned on, normal city water pressure forces a blended stream of water (or a specially prepared grass food and fertilizer) through the pipe perforations, providing blanket coverage to grass roots under the turf.

Because the moisture flowing out under the lawn is not subject to evaporation, approximately 50 per cent can be saved on water bills, reported H. H. Shepherd, Jr., president of Water-Boy Systems, Inc., Dallas, parent company. He says that two hours of unattended use per week will usually maintain enough moisture for a healthy, attractive lawn.

The system can be financed through FHA Title 1 Home Improvement Loans, Shepherd states.

A transistorized moisture-sensing controller that automatically measures the moisture content in the ground is available as an optional feature.

Bill Porte, president of Southern Colorado Water-Boy, Inc., 3431 N. Prospect St., is the local distributor.

Student Disorders May Come Again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Californians may expect more student mob disorders, says University of California President Dr. Clark Kerr, because students reflect "the mood of the nation itself which ... is a disturbed place."

Kerr told a news conference Tuesday that mob action on the Berkeley campus last week was not unique to California.

"Students of the 1960s are more activist than ever before, from left to right wing...pushing their concerns much harder. A small majority seems no longer willing to maintain their activism within the bounds of law and order," said Kerr.

There were 1,374,421 (m) Americans living abroad when the 1960 U.S. census was taken, 80 per cent of them members of the armed forces and their families.

STUDYING ALCOHOLISM AGENCY—The Reverend George Otto, pastor of the Broadmoor Community Church and member of the United Fund Admissions and Allocations Committee, discusses the work of the El Paso County Council on Alcoholism with Bob Jenner secretary of the board of the United Fund Agency. Part of the proceeds of the current campaign for $484,800 will go to assist this agency in its education and referral program.

Manitou Council Wrestles With Budget Problems

The Manitou Springs City Council wrestled with alternate budget recommendations Tuesday afternoon, including a 3.4 mill hike in the city tax levy.

Alternate recommendations for a record budget for running the city in 1965 included: the higher mill levy, raising water rates, and slashing expenses.

The recommendations, made by a three - member city council budget committee, called for a 1965 budget of $254,000, up from $216,000 this year.

No action was taken. The council will meet at 7 p.m. today to consider proposals that the first budget recommendation be whittled.

Part of the more than 17 per cent budget increase was from interest and retirement on new and old water bonds. This will be a $38,560 bite out of the budget.

Raising the mill levy to meet the new budget would increase it from the present 21.14 mills to 24.54.

However, by upping the flat water rate from $3.57 to $5, the minimum meter rate by the same amount, and crarging 10 per cent more on metered water, the budget committee said it would only be necessary to raise the present levy .36 mills to meet the budget recommendation.

The question of slashing expenses to reduce or eliminate any mill levy or water rate increases brought differing opinions from the council.

Mayor L. Longaker said he favored the plan to raise water rates to pay for something "which isn't paying its way. The water department is not now and never has been self supporting," he pointed out. The mayor said he favored a water rate increase instead of more property tax because "You cannot expect thetown to progress if our mill levy is excessive."

He pointed out the Manitou Springs School District 14 levy was expected to increase more than 3 mills. However, Mayor Longaker said, he was sure that most persons in Manitou were not against providing good schooling.

Councilwoman Mabel Willie said that the budget should be cut. She promised to find savings in her public grounds and parks department.

"It sounds like the budget is a little larger tran it should be," said Councilman Frank Altman, who also favored more economy. "I think that the council should consider the taxpayer," he said. "There's no economy of any sort that I can see applied to the budget."

Councilman Fred Jordan called the proposed raising of general expenditures "almost a theft."

Newly apointed Councilman Arthur Fannin said he favored the budget and would like to see increased expenditures to get the streets in shape.

The question of larger salaries for police and other departments was discussed. The budget recommendations allow for hiring another full time patrolman.

Council members Mrs. Willie and Altman said that the patrolmen now get fair wages (3,-670 a year). "We never lack for applications," said Mrs. Willie.

The budget committee was headed by Councilman William Cochran and included Mrs. Willie and Fannin.

Work of UF Agency Told By Jenner

Robert Jenner, secretary of the board of directors of the El Paso County Council of Alcoholism, summarized the work of the United Fund Agency as.

"Letting people know that there is help. . .that something can be done for the alcoholic."

He was being interviewed by the Reverend George Otto, pastor of the Broadmoor Community Church. Rev. Otto, a volunteer member of the United Fund Admissions and Allocation Committee, is studying this agency prior to the distribution of funds to be raised in the campaign for $484,800 covering 33 agencies.

"We operate a referral service in our Alcoholism Information Center located in the Out West Building," Jenner explained.

He pointed out that while Alcoholics Anonymous is the best known agency, other help is often needed. He cited the physical deterioration of many alcoholics as an example.

"The Council conducts a wide educational program with heavy emphasis at the student level.

"Some people cannot tolerate alcohol. If students recognize the symptoms of alcoholism and understand the nature of the disease, it is possible some cases of alcoholism will be prevented," Jenner said.

Reverend Otto asked about the effect of alcoholism on family members in the Pikes Peak Region, pointing out that some givers to the United Fund still feel little sympathy for the alcoholic himself.

There are an estimated 5,000 alcoholics in El Paso County. More than 20,000 members of their families are affected by the unreliability of the alcoholic. The estimated cost of alcoholism to the county is 2½ million dollars a year, according to Jenner.

"If the father goes on a binge with his weekly pay check, the mother and kids may go hungry. When an alcoholic is rehabilitated, it benefits his whole family, not to mention his employer and friends," Jenner said.

"We are greatly concerned with the increase in alcoholism among women, teenagers, and young adults. It should be of the utmost interest to the community to prevent this waste of human lives," he concluded.

Water Storage 53 Per Cent

Colorado Springs water storage reservoirs were 53 per cent of capacity to start this week, according to officials in the water division of the Department of Public Utilities. The percentage represents 5.5 billion gallons.

This compares with 54.1 per cent Sept. 28 or 5.6 billion gallons.

Reservoirs contained 5.8 billion gallons of water Aug. 31 and 5.9 billion gallons Aug. 10 and again on Aug. 17.

Usage during the past week has been moderate because of the cooler weather. High usage day was 32.2 million gallons Sept. 29 and the low period was 26.2 million gallons Oct. 3.

In addition to its mountain water sources, the city has obtained water from the Cherokee, Clear Springs and Venetucci well water sources.

Single Fund Drive at Canon Underway

The second campaign of the Fremont County United Single Fund got underway with a burst of enthusiasm at a kick-off breakfast held at the Colorado State Penitentiary Pre - Parole Center east of Canon City, at 8 a. m. Monday.

There were 58 team captains and workers at the breakfast, presided over by Burl Huitt, of Canon City, president of the fund. Goal for this year's drive is $23,000.

Speaker at the kickoff was Dr. Ben F. Lehmberg of Colorado Springs who stressed enthusiasm and salesmanship as the most important elements in achieving this year's goal in Fremont county. Judge Jails Man; Calls Him 'Disgusting Individual'

Carl Shields, 24, heard himself called "a pretty disgusting individual" Tuesday by Municipal Court Judge Allan Asher who sentenced the man to 60 days in jail on a guilty finding of disorderly conduct.

Officer A. C. Talley testified that he and another officer observed Shields and a young boy "holding hands" as they walked west at 1:15 a.m. Oct. 3 in the 100 block of South Cascade Avenue.

Talley said they thought the boy looked a little young to be out at that time of morning, so they stopped the pair, who told them they were "just going for a walk."

The officer said Shields told them he saw nothing wrong in holdings hands with the boy, as he came from Kansas City, Mo., which he described as "a gay town" where this was permitted.

The boy, who gave his age as 15, testified that he was walking on Tejon Street about 12:30 a.m. and Shields came up to him and asked him where he was going. He said he told the man he was "just walking," and when Shields asked if he could come along, said he "did not care."

The boy said they went to the Park Cafe and the man ordered beer and gave it to him. He said he had about seven or eight beers.

When Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac asked the boy if Shields made any overtures toward him, the boy said he put his hands on his legs, but he brushed them off. He said they left the bar and he thought they were going to another bar. "This time I was feeling kind of good," the boy testified, "so I didn't care what happened."

Shields pleaded guilty to a drunk charge but said he had no recollection about the "other part" and declined to offer any testimony about the boy's allegations.

When Judge Asher asked Talley about Shields' condition, the officer said he "wasn't in too bad a shape" at the time he was questioned on the street, but said that as soon as they took him to the station, Shields began to stagger and announced several times that he was drunk.

Judge Asher said he didn't think the man was drunk, that he was well aware of what he was doing, and found him not guilty.

"It's a filthy thing," he told Shields, "to take anyone this age, ply him with alcohol, and try to pervert him," and added that there "must be some limits to someone's indecency," and called Shields a "pretty disgusting individual."

He advised the boy to "look at himself," noting that he was "ripe for any approach such as this, and you were well aware of what was expected of you." The boy's mother was in the courtroom throughout the proceedings, but made no comment.

Emma Maez, 53, 315 W. Costilla St., and William Valdez, 55, 1622 W. Vermijo St., pleaded guilty to drunk charges. She was given 10 days in county jail and Valdez was fined $25. Leo Martinez, 33, 15 W. Costilla St., was fined $100 on his guilty plea to a riotous conduct charge, filed against him by his wife Marvella, but the judge suspended the fine on condition Martinez stay away from Mrs. Martinez.

Mrs. Hazel Kusma, 51, 3334 E. LaSalle St., was fined $10 on a guilty finding of a stop sign violation. On a motion by Isaac, the judge dismissed a charge of disobeying a traffic sign against Stephen Hansen, 16, 2934 W. Uintah St., for insufficient evidence.

Canon Building Permits Hit High in Sept.

Building permits with a total valuation of $365,600 were issued by Canon City during the month of September for one of the largest months of building in the city's history, Carl Lynn, city building inspector, has reported.

This September's figure far far exceeds the valuation of $36,410 in building permits issued in September of 1963.

Included in the building permits for September was the valuation of a new 54-bed nursing home being constructed at Tenth St. and Harding Ave. Valuation of the structure, reported to be the fourth most costly to be built in Canon City in recent years is $287,000. Only the Fremont County Courthouse, the St. Scholastica Academy dormitory, and the Canon City High School are reported to have cost more.

The nursing home is being built by Associated Constructors of Colorado Springs. The firm has constructed several other nursing homes in the Southern Colorado region.

Last month has a total valuation of new structures at $326,-100, compared with $22,450 in September, 1963. Repairs, alterations, and additions permits were valued at $39,500, compared to $12,610 a year ago.

Valuation of permits was $44,-760 in September, 1962, with 38 permits issued. In 1963 there were only 26 permits issued, compared with 37 issued in September this year.

The new structures being built during September include two home, a warehouse, as well as the nursing home.

Field Biology Courses Added At Wasson High

A course in field biology has been added to the Wasson High School curriculum this year. It is one of 11 experimental projects now in progress in District 11 schools, according to Dr. Arthur R. Olson, deputy superintendent.

The course is giving students practical experience in the research techniques used by ecologists and foresters, Dr. Olson said. On 15 Saturdays the class of 20 students will visit areas within a 20 mile radius of Colorado Springs to do work that cannot be satisfactorily duplicated in classrooms and laboratories.

To earn the one semester of credit the course offers, students must not only do field work but also pass a minimum of two essay examinations and complete an individual project.

Clark Wilder and Donald Scoby of the Wasson High faculty organized the course for selected students. Both teachers are instructing the class.

On its first field trip the class went to Pikes Peak where it spent nearly eight hours making species curves of the vegetation. The second trip was to some ponds north of the city to study a different environment and its vegetation. That class session ended with work in the laboratory.

Wilder said the class must spend a minimum of 75 hours in the field and laboratory. Course requirements will also require students to do considerable work outside of class, he added.

Although the class meets on Saturdays, there were more applicants than could be accepted, Wilder said. Applicants were required to have had one year of biology, a C average in mathematics and science courses, and demonstrate a high interest level in science.

Peak Highway Still Open

Pikes Peak Highway Superintendent Jack Sullivan reported today that some people in the region are under the impression the highway to the 14,110-foot summit was closed for the season — but that certainly isn't the case.

He said the road was open and it is hoped to keep it that way thru the entire month of October. The tole gate hours are from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

The highway stayed open to the general public throughout October last year, and up into December for workmen completing the Pikes Peak summit house.

"We plan to keep the highway open throughout October," Sullivan said, "unless a heavy snow should force closure earlier."

Asbestos Is Being Blamed For Cancer

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Medical specialists pointed a strong finger of suspicion today at asbestos as a cause not only of lung cancer but also of another extremely rare form of fatal human cancer.

This cancer, known as mesothelioma, involves the lining of the abdominal and chest cavities.

Much of the specialists' evidence comes from autopsy studies of men working with asbestos as an insulation material.

They said it also is possible that dust from products containing asbestos might be exposing people generally to some risk of cancers. How much risk there might be, they said, they could not tell.

Asbestos is used not only for insulation but as a flooring material, in automobile brake shoes, and in many other applications. Ordinary wear and tear, they said, might release dust into the atmosphere.

The report was presented to the American Public Health Association by Drs. Irving J. Selikoff and Jacob Churg of the Mount Sinai Hospital, New York, and E. Cuyler Hammond, Sc.D., director of statistical research for the American Cancer Society. Dr. Hammond is known for his studies of cigarette smoking in relationship to lung cancer.

Asbestos is a mineral, magnesium silicate, and about 3½ million tons of it are used worldwide each year, they said. In 1935, Worldwide usage amounted to about 500 tons, the researchers said.

Tiny, hard particles of asbestos can lodge in the lungs during mining, processing and application of asbestos-containing materials, or possibly from dust raised through normal wear, they said.

"We had previously found that lung cancer and possibly gastrointestinal cancer were markedly increased in incidence among asbestos insulation workers," they said.

Now they also find a markedly high increase among such workers of mesothelioma, a cancer so rare it is not classed separately as a cause of death in the international classification of diseases.

As a prime example, they reported finding 10 deaths due to this form of cancer in a study of 307 deaths among New York and New Jersey building trades union members engaged in using asbestos at least occasionaly as an insulation material.

By contrast, this form of cancer was found to be the cause of death among only three out of more than 30,000 autopsies in a study of the general population sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Other studies showed a high incidence not only of lung cancer but mesotheliomas among persons who had asbestos particles in their lungs at the time of their death, attbey said.

"It would appear that mesothelioma must be added to the neoplasic (cancer) risks of asbestos inhalation and joins lung cancer (53 out of 307 deaths) and probably cancer of the stomach and colon (34 of 307 deaths) as a significant complication of such industrial exposure in the United States" their report said.

The cancers may not appear until 20 to 30 years after asbestos dust is inhaled or swallowed, they said. Since the particles do not dissolve, they may remain in body tissue as a continuous source that might incite ultimate cancer.

Dr. Hammond said one worry is whether a few or even a single past exposure might set the sage for cancer. He said this is a matter calling for more research.

Taking precautions to avoid breathing in asbestos dust is a main protection for industrial workers, he and Dr. Selikoff said.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — The topless bathing suit has gone underground.

It went in a time capsule, buried during a dedication of the new First Federal Savings and Loan building here. Those in charge figured it reflected part of life in 1964, hopefully to jog some memories when the capsule is opened in 10 years. But as one observer remarked:

"If this is all that's left of the suit now, I wonder what the fashion will be in 1974?"

Miller Claims GOP Gaining In Dixie

By CHARLES DUMAS

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller, campaigning in the Deep South, claims the Republican national ticket is running ahead in all Southern states except Texas and Georgia.

"I just don't believe it," Miller said in disputing a published survey that indicated Sen. Barry Goldwater was lagging far behind expectations in the South.

The GOP vice-presidential candidate conceded in an interview that, if his ticket were to have any chance of election, it would have to crack the "solid South" wide open. He said, "We are going to do it."

At a news conference in Augusta Tuesday night, he maintained, "We have all of the Southern states ecept Texas and Georgia — these are the only two battle areas in my mind."

Miller flew into Georgia after a long day of campaigning in North Carolina — a sortie marked by hard-hitting attacks on President Johnson.

His comments on the GOP outlook in the South were triggered by a New York Times story reporting that surveys showed the Goldwater-Miller ticket could count on only two Southern states for certain — Alabama and Mississippi.

"It's just the other way around," Miller said. "There are only two states we are not sure of — Texas and Georgia."

Miller said Georgia posed a problem because Democratic Gov. Carl E. Sanders was campaigning actively against Goldwater. He did not discuss the situation in Texas, home state of President Johnson.

In response to other questions, Miller said he and Goldwater were considering a possible change in their campaign techniques that would have them spend more time on national television appearances in the closing weeks of the campaign and less on cross-country tours.

Miller invited newmen to his motel room Tuesday night to discuss another newspaper story, a Washington report that a Buffalo law partner was on his congressional payroll at $13,792 a year.

"There's never been any secret about it," Miller said, acknowledging that John H. Stenger has been his administrative assistant since last October.

He said he hired Stenger to replace a long-time aide, who departed for another job, because "I needed somebody whom I knew and who knew me."

Miller said "there could be no conflict of interest," because "I am a totally inactive partner" in the law firm.

Campaigning in chilly, topcoat weather across North Carolina Tuesday Miller assailed Johnson in Asheville as "a superficial man" and "a public relations politician instead of a leader."

In Hickory, N.C., Miller said that if he had to run on Johnson's record he would be trying to distort the issues in the campaign as, he said, Johnson was trying to do.

He told the chilled but lively crowd of more than 1,000 persons who turned out at the Catawba County Fairground Tuesday night that their enthusiasm was "very indicative of victory" in North Carolina.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., (AP) — A luncheon with Republican women in Huntsville, meetings in Anniston, Tuscaloosa, Birmingham and Dothan spelled a busy Alabama day today for Stephanie Miller, wife of the GOP vice-presidential nominee.

Mrs. Miller arrived in Montgomery Tuesday night, held a news conference and attended a pink elephant ball before departing for Huntsville, where she spent the night.

In the state capital, Mrs. Miller described her husband, Rep. William E. Miller of New York, as "a self-made man who has conducted his affairs in an honest way all of his life."

She told newsmen that the new-found GOP strength in this part of the nation is gratifying.

She dodged a query on whether she would be pleased or displeased if she had been embraced politically by Gov. George C. Wallace upon stepping off the plane.

"There are some questions that would be better for my husband to answer," Mrs. Miller said.

Key Section of Civil Rights Act Examined

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court opened its new term hearing arguments on two challenges to the constitutionality of a key section of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Dispensing quickly with opening day formalities Monday the high court heard four hours of debate on the two cases. Both involve the section of the law which prohibits discrimination in such public accommodations as hotels, motels and restaurants.

One case was brought by the Hearts of Atlanta Motel; the other, by Ollie's Barbecue, a Birmingham, Ala., restaurant.

The court gave no indication of when it may decide the cases. It called for additional, written arguments from the two sides within 10 days.

The public accommodations sections is one of two whose constitutionality was questioned by Republican presidential explaining his Senate vote against the rights bill. President Johnson's administration considers passage of the law one of its prime legislative accomplishments.

Moreton Rolleston Jr., owner of the Heart of Atlanta Motel who acted as his own attorney, told the court that unless it declares the law unconstitutional, "there is no end" to how far Congress will invade personal liberties.

Rolleston challenged Congress' constitutional right to ban restaurant, hotel and motel discrimination under its powers to regulate interstate commerce.

"People are not commerce," he argued. He denounced as "hogwash" Justice Department contentions that the measure is aimed at relieving the burden on interstate commerce.

Justice Hugo L. Black asked Rolleston how he could say interstate commerce is not involved since Negroes can find no motel accommodations in travels through the South. The attorney replied that after the Heart of Atlanta was ordered to admit Negroes, only three went there during August.

Solicitor General Archibald Cox, arguing for the government, said Congress has the power to regulate even local activities when a burden is placed on interstate commerce.

He cited government reports on civil rights disturbances as showing they affected interstate commerce and mentioned loss of business, conventions going elsewhere and industries deciding not to move into an area.

In the Birmingham case, attorney Robert McD. Smith contended that the provision of the public accommodations section dealing with restaurants was irrational, saying it holds that foods once purchased in interstate commerce have an eventual serious effect on that commerce.

Ollie's concedes it is in violation of the law as worded but contends it is not in interstate commerce. The restaurant, owned by Ollie McClung Sr., and his son Ollie Jr., is located several blocks from the nearest interstate route.

A three-judge federal court ruled that the law should not be applied to Ollie's. The decision was stayed by Justice Black pending the high court's final determination of the case.

In the Atlanta case, a three-judge federal court ruled that the accommodations section is constitutional as applied to the motel, which is located adjacent to an interstate highway and conceded that 75 per cent of its guests were from states other than Georgia.

By MICHAEL [illegible]

WASHINGTON — The [illegible] in Legion whose [illegible] patriotism [illegible] [illegible] has just issued a remarkable report [illegible] [illegible] that the State Department [illegible] other [illegible] [illegible] Communism."

In examining the [illegible] the investigating committee was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that [illegible] department [illegible] [illegible] are actually [illegible] [illegible] public servants" with a tough and realistic attitude toward Communism."

It concluded that the department [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] repeated accusations of [illegible] [illegible] of a failure to respond [illegible] actually to criticism. [illegible] department has [illegible] [illegible] actually, the committee said, "the vast majority of [illegible] [illegible] would [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] able satisfaction and assurance."

Secretary of State Dean Rusk invited the inquiry in a speech at a Legion convention dinner in Miami [illegible] [illegible]. [illegible] investigating committee headed by a former national commander Preston [illegible] Moore of Oklahoma, was set up and given all FBI security checks.

The group, all prominent Legionnaires, spent weeks poking through the State Department, talking to officials high and low, sitting in on secret [illegible] conferences, reading documents and checking on personnel and policy procedures. They also consulted outside authorities and traveled to overseas posts in Thailand, India, Italy, Japan, Formosa, the Philippines, Hong Kong and Okinawa.

FIND ONLY A FEW DOUBTFUL EMPLOYES

The result is a 5,000-word report which examines the State Department and its problems in surprisingly careful detail. It is anything but a whitewash; the Legionnaires criticize some things and make a whole series of recommendations. But the recommendations are generally constructive and some are in line with Rusk's own thinking.

From the viewpoint of the Legion, of course, the most sensitive of all issues are the department's attitude toward Communism and its handling of its security problems. On both counts the committee found reassurance. It said employes of questionable loyalty or suitability are "relatively few in number" and those who are mediocre are "much in the minority."

"Perhaps the most important benefit which the members have derived from the study," the committee said, "is the sense of reassurance that can come only through face to face discussions with the men and women who shoulder the burden of the foreign affairs of the U.S. No amount of reading or long-range observation can serve as an adequate substitute for personal contact."

The committee said the public is naturally confused about the department's policies when the U.S. sells wheat to Russia while the Communists are killing Americans in South Viet Nam. It urged a greater effort to tell the people the reasons for negotiations with the Communists and for any exchange of concessions.

A TOUGH, REALISTIC ATTITUDE TOWARD REDS

On the general charge of department softness toward Communism, however, the Legionnaires concluded "that this is not the case." Although a few diplomats believe that Russia's leaders are mellowing, the committee said most State Department officials are "under no delusions concerning Communist intentions."

"They are not playing a game of 'let's pretend,'" the report declared. "The personal attitude of these department leaders toward Communism is tough and realistic, particularly so among the chiefs of mission with whom the committee members talked overseas. This same attitude is revealed also in the Secretary's speeches."

The Legion investigators said it is "profitless" to make a choice between toughness and softness toward Communism. Instead, they urged a "firm, balanced, consistent, and unequivocating" policy carried out in a way that does not encourage public misunderstanding. Although the "potential threat may now be great," the investigators called it a source of public criticism that should be eliminated.

In addition the Legionnaires proposed that a man's judgment and attitude should be considered in security clearances.

[illegible] an Australian [illegible] [illegible] in making [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] government [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] "internationalism" [illegible] compatible with national [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] permitted [illegible] [illegible] as [illegible] State Department.

CHARGES NO COMMUNISTS IN STATE

The committee [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] in the department [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the security [illegible] [illegible] department [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] documents.

On the whole, however, the committee declared that the department "has [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] effort to weed out security risks and to prohibit their entry [illegible] new." And it said it found no instance in which an employe could fairly and reasonably be described as a Communist.

In general, the Legion committee said it was "favorably impressed with the State Department's personnel standards and procedures." Although there is still room for improvement, the report said, "the vast majority of Foreign Service employes are well qualified and very capable."

The committee made a number of recommendations for improving department communications, diplomatic reporting, intelligence gathering, and the organization of operations both in Washington and overseas. The most significant perhaps is the suggestion that many of the charges against the department are based on ignorance or misunderstanding which could be eliminated by effective public relations.

Wilson May Be Hostile to U.S., Politicos Say

NEW YORK (NEA) — Can Europe and the world take two De Gaulles — one in France and one in Britain?

That's the outlook if, as some polls predict, the British Labor Party defeats the Conservatives in the Oct. 15 general elections and Harold Wilson becomes prime minister in place of Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

Wilson is likely to be independent, verging on hostile relations with the U.S. president — very much like De Gaulle. Should Douglas-Home be re-elected, however, there would be little or no change in Britain's pro-NATO policies.

"Nobody really knows Harold or what surprises he is likely to spring," a top Labor party official told this writer. "He can be at once pro-American and anti-American, pro-Russian and anti-Russian. It all depends on the advantage he seeks to gain at a particular moment."

Wilson, 47, is a stocky little man with a fine head of prematurely grey hair. His face and expression can produce surprisingly different reactions at the same time.

To his admirers, he appears friendly and teddy-bearish. But his opponents inside the Labor party see "Red Harold" as a cool and calculating Oxford intellectual.

They recall with bitterness Wilson's championship of the nuclear disarmers, the "better-Red-than-dead" advocates who nearly destroyed the Labor party in 1960 when the late Hugh Gaitskell was its leader.

Harold Wilson, when it suits his purposes, can be shrewd and cautious in expressing a view. But his strong attack on President John Kennedy's blockade of Fidel Castro's Cuba showed stronger emotions than one would expect from a calculating politician.

In recent months — with the post of prime minister almost within his reach — Wilson has been consistently ambiguous on foreign policy issues of major importance. Yet there are some indications what he stands for or against in international affairs. Wilson is for:

"Limited" British neutrality in the cold war.

Immediate admission of Red China into the United Nations.

Expanded East - West trade and longer credit terms for the Russians and their East European satellites.

Disengagement in Europe.

This policy also is advocated by Russia and Red Poland. It means the withdrawal of American, British and French troops from Berlin and West Germany and the eventual neutralization of the Bonn Federal Republic.

Vatican Council Seeks More Laymen's Work

By GERALD MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council turned today to discussion of how laymen can play a wider role in the work of the Roman Catholic Church.

After two years of debate and study of such issues as concepts and principles of church government, relations with other faiths, theology and liturgy, the council put its spotlight on the half-billion nonordained faithful of the Church.

The council was asking itself, in debating a schema on the apostolate of the laity, how these people could contribute more to the Church than their devotions and their money.

Many bishops say the time is past when the laity could be regarded — as old ecclesiastical jokes put it — as those who need only "pray, pay and obey" or be "hatched, matched and dispatched."

"This is the hour of the laity," Pope Paul VI said in a recent statement.

He said the layman now is asking "that he may do something for the growth and edification of the Church."

British Archbishop John C. Heenan commented recently: "Now, in a way which is a remarkable improvement on 25 years ago, the laity are taking a tremendous interest in theology and the actual work of the Church."

Never before in the 2,000-year history of the Church have any of the previous 20 councils paid any special attention to the layman in this connection.

Indicative of the changing relationships between the hierarchy and the laity is the presence at the closed sessions of this council of Catholic men and women chosen from the laity to attend as observers. Many factors lie behind this change.

One member of the council commission that drew up the schema on the laity put it this way: "Because of the general increase in the level of education, much of it due to our system of Catholic schools, the laity is able to play a wider, more competent role in the Church."

Debate on the schema was to open after voting on the third and final chapter of the Christian unity schema. The first two chapters were approved Monday and Tuesday.

Farm Price Index Down In State, Up in U.S.

Lower prices received by Colorado farmers and ranchers for fruits, vegetables and beef cattle caused the mid-September prices received index to drop four points (two per cent) from a month earlier, according to the Colorado Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The index at mid-month was 261 per cent of the 1910-1914 base, 10 points below the September 15, 1963, level.

Lower prices for beef cattle pushed the all-livestock index down seven points. The all-crop index was down two points as prices received for fruit and vegetables declined in mid-August.

During the month ended Sept. 15, the Index of Prices Received by Farmers in the United States advanced four points (two per cent to 236 per cent of its 1910-1914 average. Contributing most to the increase were higher prices for wholesale milk, cattle and hogs.

The national Index of Prices Paid by Farmers, including interest, taxes and farm wage rates, on Sept. 15 was unchanged from mid-August. Increases in prices of farm production goods were offset by lower prices for family living items.

SWAP AWARD—The SWAP (Salesman With A Purpose) Club's outstanding salesmanship award was presented to Jack D. City Manager Outlines Tax, Budget Proposals

City Manager John Biery Tuesday listed the alternatives to adopting a city sales tax. He has recommended that the city countil pass a two per cent sales tax.

The Colorado Springs Charter Association has complained of an "absence of knowledge of what alternative ways of raising revenue were considered and why they were discarded."

Biery said a two per cent sales tax would cut the city property tax from the present 17.1 mills to 5.5 mills.

He said the sales tax would permit the police department to be strengthened next year by the addition of 18 uniform men and an additional PBX operator. Over the next five years, including 1965, he said it is proposed to add 53 new men plus nine civilians.

"More manpower on foot should be provided in our downtown areas, in addition to servicing the many square miles of newly annexed territory," he said. The five year total cost has been pegged at $1.2 million which is part of the $8.4 million improvement program the city manager has mentioned in recent talks.

The five year fire department improvement program calls for an expenditure of $1,487,100, of which it is proposed to spend $205,500 in 1965. The 1965 expenditures next year would include the following:

Construction of a new No. 8 fire station at Airport and Chelton roads, $85,000; equipment and furniture for the new station, $15,000; one new aerial truck plus equipment, $53,000; replace a 750 gallon-per-minute pumper with a new 1,000 gallon pumper, $25,000; and the first phase of the fire alarm system, $27,500.

Proposed cost for the subsequent four years would be $290,500 in 1966, $272,500 in 1967, $320,800 in 1968 and $387,800 in 1969.

Capital outlays for the five year period would be $965,900 and the accumlative cost for 30 new men, $521,200. This would provide, among other things, three new stations and the manpower and equipment or them, plus substantial improvements in five phases to the alarm system. No. 9 station would be at Chestnut and Fillmore Streets and No. 10 Templeton Gap Road and Academy Boulevard.

The five year public works program for streets and drainage would cost an estimated $3,363,000, with $385,000 of that proposed for 1965. The 1965 projects would include the following:

West Kiowa Street drainage, $100,000; city's share of arterial streets, $150,000; concrete cross gutters, $10,000; widening of Union Boulevard, Airport Road and East Lake, $3,000; city's share of Fountain Boulevard from Meade to Union Boulevard, $34,000; city's share of sidewalk repairs, $25,000; and miscellaneous, $3,000.

Proposed expenditures in subsequent four years would be $550,000 in 1966, $628,000 in 1967, $845,000 in 1968 and $950,000 in 1969. These four years would include numerous street and storm drainages all over the city, street widening and the city's share of improvements districts, arterial streets, sidewalk repairs, plus new street, extensions, etc.

The parks improvements over the five year period would amount to $2,358,000 with $497,000 of that to be done in 1965.

The $497,000 park improvements in 1965 would be accomplished at Audubon, Bird Farm, Bonny, Bott, Boulder, Conjeos, Dorchester, Fountain, Garden of the Gods, Jefferson, Mark Twain School Park, Memorial, Monument Valley, North Cheyenne Canon, Palmer Park, Pike School Park, Thorndale Park plus center parkings and triangles.

There would be $180,000 in improvements to Memorial Park, $75,000 at the Bird Farm Park and lesser amounts at the others. There would be continuing substantial improvements at Memorial Park in the following four years. Developing new park lands would require substantial amounts in 1968 and 1969.

The city manager in his budget preparations has also come up with some other plans for council consideration.

One such plan would be to adopt a 1 per cent sales tax which would produce about $1,280,000 in revenue. This plan would require a 15.5 mill levy in order to meet the proposed budget of $5,820,721.

Another plan would be a 19.6 mill levy and forgetting about the sales tax entirely. If council elected to go that route, it would mean cutting out $760,800 from the proposed budget.

Such a plan would result in the following reductions:

General special (cost of collecting the sales tax), $50,000; reduce police overtime, $10,000; reduce police overtime, $0,000; no aerial truck for the fire Department, $53,3000; no 1,000 gallon pumper, $25,000; reduce one signal for traffic engineering, $4,500; reduce traffic marking paint, $2,000; not add another planner to the Planning Department, $6,300; forget about auditorium bleachers, $25,000; no West Kiowa Street Storm drainage, $100,000; eliminate five year park program, except for miscellaneous and payments for Bird Farm and to Egmont Vrooman for land near Garden of the Gods, $432,000.

Still another route would be to adopt a 17.5 mill levy with no sales tax of any kind. This plan would call for eliminating all the above mentioned reductions plus the following added reductions totaling $258,980:

Welfare (child guidance, family services, alcoholics rehabilitation and USO), $10,400; extra matching fire pension fund, $8,000; reduce four men from 18 requested by the police department; cut out one police car, $1,600; reduce police miscellaneous expenses for four men, $2,000; forget about No. 8 fire station and equipment, $100,000 first phase of the five year fire alarm program, $27,500; exterior painting at City Auditorium, 20th Street and 13 W. Colorado Ave, $8,000; Eliminate opening Fountain Boulevard, $34,000; no concrete street pans, $10,000; reduce arterial streets, $20,000; and eliminate park road paving, $20,000.

The city manager noted that if the $3,262,721 needed from taxes were raised thru a property tax it would require 25.5 mills. This is obviously impossible since the city charter sets a 29 mill levy as a ceiling.

Burglars Take Coins, Pistol

A bag of Indian Head pennies valued at $300 and a .22 Caliber pistol were taken from a home by burglars Tuesday night, police reported.

Marvin Sherman, of 2607 Fairmont St., told police that thieves entered his home through an open garage door. He said the door and two doors leading into the house were left open because they had been recently painted and were still wet.

A bag containing 153 Indian Head pennies and other rare coins was taken. The pistol was worth approximately $25, Sherman said.

The burglary occurred while Sherman was out of the house between 6:40 p.m. and 8 p.m., police said.

Don't believe everything you hear about the new kind of KUPPENHEIMER

No matter what you've heard, most girls will not try to kiss you just because you're wearing the new Kuppenheimer XK suit. Just because the suit has a rather remarkable new tailoring idea that upgrades your chest and shoulders and downgrades your middle ... just because it makes you look a little younger and more "with it" ... and gives you more freedom at the shoulder and more snugness at the collar ... that doesn't mean it's going to change your whole life. Carson Hospital Section Cited as 'Second to None'

One of the nation's most distinguished names in the field of obstetrics and gynecology inspected this section at the Ft. Carson Hospital last week and declared it "second to none."

The special was Dr. Ralph Campbell, consultant in obstetrics and gynecology to the Army's Surgeon General.

Dr. Campbell is professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Wisconsin Medical School and is also an examiner for the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology Service.

Dr. Campbell has been performing this service for the United States Army for 16 years and in this time he has "seen Army hospitals change tremendously — all for the better."

After his inspection here the doctor told Major Gen. Autrey J. Maroun, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) and Ft. Carson commander, that he is not one to withhold criticism when it is due. He believed, sincerely, that the obstetric and gynecology unit here is "second to none."

Dr. Campbell's visit to Ft. Carson was the final leg in a tour through Fifth Army hospitals, including Ft. Leonard Wood, Ft. Leavenworth and Ft. Riley.

Maj. Kenneth E. Guenter, chief of professional services, is head of the obstetrical unit at Ft. Carson, which is staffed by five doctors.

There were 1,268 babies born at Ft. Carson during fiscal year 1964, an average of 3.5 daily. Like at all other Army hospitals according to a recent Medicare report, the peak of deliveries is August and September.

At Carson 132 babies were born in August, 137 in September. Stpember 1963 set a record with 150 babies.

Care of the patient is the primary consideration, Maj. Guenter stated.

He credited the "excellent professional staff" with earning Dr. Campbell's kudos.

"Everyone here works hard and does his best for the patient," he said. Major Guenter has been at Ft. Carson for the past 14 months.

Yogi Started Playing Ball In St. Louis

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Yogi Berra is back home in St. Louis where he once thanked his fans "for making this night necessary."

Yogi has come a long way from the years when he played sandlot ball on "the hill" with Joe Garagiola and haunted both the Cardinals and the now defunct Browns for tryouts.

Berra is back in his home town as the manager of the New York Yankees, ready to take on the Cardinals in the World Series after winning a pennant in his first year as boss.

"I used to sit right up there with the knothole gang," Berra said Tuesday, pointing toward the left field stands at Busch Stadium. In Yogi's day it was Sportsman's Park. Gussie Busch, the beer baron, had not yet bought the ball club and renamed the park.

"Sure, I used to work out here," he said. "I tried out with both the Cardinals and Browns.

"I only saw one Series game here. That was the last game in 1946 when the Cardinals beat the Red Sox. The next game I saw I was playing in it for the Yanks."

Down the stretch when the Yanks were fighting to nail down the American League pennant, Yogi kept saying, "I don't care who wins in the other league as long as we win." Deep down inside, he was pulling for the Cardinals of his old home town.

"Mr. Rickey once told me I'd never be a big league ball player," said Berra. He was referring to Branch Rickey who was general manager of the Cards in those distant days before moving on to Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, the Continental League and, eventually, back to St. Louis as a special consultant.

"He was going to move on to Brooklyn but he didn't tell me," continued Berra. "When he got there he sent me a wire to report to the Dodgers at Bear Mountain. But I had already signed with somebody else (Yanks).

"The Browns wanted to give me $250 but I wanted $500, the same as Garagiola got from the Cardinals. I would have signed with either the Browns or the Cardinals if they gave me $500. But they didn't. So I took the $500 from the Yankees."

Everybody likes to come home again. But to Yogi Berra this is something special.

Yank Power Meets Card Speed; Linz Into Lineup

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) It's New York power against St. Louis speed, crafty Whitey Ford against youthful Ray Sadecki, and World Series-hardened veterans against a relatively inexperienced crew as the Yankees and Cardinals open the autumn classic today.

The best-of-seven games will decide baseball's world championship.

The Yankees, 17-to-10 favorites to win their 21st post-season title in 29 attempts, were handicapped somewhat by the absence of regular shortstop Tony Kubek. He had missed the last two weeks of the season because of a jammed wrist.

Officially out for the entire series, Kubek has been replaced by Mike Hegan, rookie first baseman and son of Yankee bullpen coach Jim Hegan.

Phil Linz, the versatile infielder who plays the harmonica on the side, will play shortstop in Kubek's place and led off. The Cardinals, too, are not 100 per cent physically fit.

Uncertainty over second baseman Julian Javier and third baseman Ken Boyer, injured in weekend games with the New York Mets, was eliminated Tuesday when both assured manager Johnny Keane they were ready to play.

Javier injured his left hip in a collision Saturday and did not play in the regular season finale. Boyer pulled a muscle in his left thigh rounding third in the sixth inning of the finale.

"You couldn't keep those fellows out of the Series," said Keane. "They played too hard to get into it."

A sellout crowd of 32,000 was assured with tickets in much demand. Speculators were getting as much as $100 for a pair of box seats.

The weatherman continued to be kind to the St. Louis populace. As it has been throughout the final week of the season, sunny and pleasant weather prevailed with temperatures of 65 to 70 for the Cards' first World Series since 1946.

Starting time was 1 p.m., EST, with all games carried on network NBC radio and television.

On the basis of experience, the Ford-Sadecki duel appeared to be a mismatch. This was the eighth opening game assignment in his 22nd Series start for the 35-year-old Ford who turned in a 17-6 record during the regular season.

On the other hand, it was World Series baptism for the 23-year-old Sadecki, the Cardinals' lone 20-game winner.

In fact, only three Cardinals — shortstop Dick Groat, outfielder Bob Skinner and pitcher Roger Craig — have had World Series experience.

There isn't a Yankee regular without Series experience except Mel Stottlemyre, the rookie right-hander. He is expected to oppose Bob Gibson, the Cards' fireballing ace, in the second game.

St. Louis southpaw Curt Simmons and New York right-hander Jim Bouton are likely starters in the third game Saturday at Yankee Stadium, following a day off due to travel.

Both teams engaged in a preliminary workout Tuesday at Busch Stadium where such Yankee sluggers as Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris, Joe Pepitone and Elston Howard impressed Keane with their long drives over and against the short right field porch.

"If there is an edge," said Keane, "I guess you have to give it to the Yankees because of their home run power. They hit more homers than we do over a season's play, but in one game or in a stort series, we can hit as many home runs as they.

"We've got three or four men who can hit the ball out of the park. Lou Brock, our left fielder, can hit the ball as hard as anybody in baseball and that includes Mantle."

Keane was unperturbed about the odds favoring the Yankees.

"The odds mean nothing to us," he said. "We have come through all the pressure of a pennant race and it was helpful in preparing the players for the series. We'll take it one game at a time."

Yogi Berra, St. Louis-born manager of the Yankees, like Keane, expected a "tough" Series.

"They've got a good hitting club," he said. "And they've got good speed. You can't take them lightly."

The Yankees presented the same line-up Berra employed to clinch the American League pennant. Mantle was in right field with Maris in center and the switch hitting Tommy Tresh in left.

"If anything happens to any of my outfielders," said Yogi, "I'll play Hector Lopez in left field. However, if necessary, I can always move Joe Pepitone from first base to center field, now that I have Hegan for first base."

The Cards outhit the Yankees .272 to .253 during regular season play but the Yankees had more home runs, 162 to 109. Individually, the Cards' Brock led all hitters with a .315 batting average, Boyer was tops in runs batted in with 119 and Curt Flood had the most hits, 211.

Mantle, as expected, was the leader in home runs with 35.

Pollet Says '64 Cardinals Similar to 1946 Winners

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Howie Pollet, St. Louis pitching coach and a member of the Cardinals' last pennant-winner 18 years ago, thinks there is a definite similarity between the clubs — "Even to the numbers '46 and '64."

"This whole year has worked in a similar cycle," said Pollet before the World Series opened. "It's still stunning now to think we beat Pittsburgh five straight and Philadelphia three straight in the last week.

"And the final drive has left us just about where we were in 1946 as far as pitching is concerned," he said. "We were jumbled then, and Sunday we had to use Bob Gibson out of order, so he's working out of the normal rotation."

The Cardinals won the 1946 pennant in a playoff — Pollet pitched the opener — with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"We were out of order then too," Pollet recalled. I opened the playoff and Series with a torn muscle in my back and pitched with it taped. That Seiies, by the way, also started in St. Louis."

Pollet did not win in the Series, but the Cardinals beat Poston four games to three with Harry (The Cat) Brecheen posting three victories and Red Munger one.

It was the three of us, until Murry Dickson started the final game, but Brecheen was in there to finish up. This time, with that day in between, we can go with three again."

The Cardinals plan to use Bob Gibson in the second game here following Ray Sadecki's opening effort. Friday is an open date for travel as the Series switches to New York, when Curt Simmons will get the start in Yankee Stadium.

There will be an open date, again for travel, if the Series moves back to St. Louis after the fifth game.

Pollet turned to the similarity in strengths in center field and in the double play combination between the two teams.

The '46 club was strong up the middle with Terry Moore in center field and Red Schoendienst and Mary Marion at second and third. And we're just as strong now with Curt Flood in center and Julian Javier and Dick Groat in the infield."

Pollet said he had one more thought.

You know we were 3-1 underdogs against Boston and the Yankees are favored this time.

Well, we won then . . ."

World Series Fever Grips St. Louis; City in Chaos

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis has been taken over by the World Series.

Tickets and hotel rooms were running low, but tensions and enthusiasm were fast increasing as the city prepared for its first fall classic in 18 years.

Talk of the chances of a St. Louis Cardinals' victory over the New York Yankees was everywhere — taverns, restaurants, offices, in the street.

Signs boosting the Redbirds could be seen throughout the city.

And fans were everywhere trying to pick up a ticket.

"My wife thinks we're nuts, said Garnet Bebermeyer of suburban Affton, who stood in line all night at Busch Stadium with his sons, 11 and 16 years old, to get a ticket. "But I want my sons to see a World Series."

Tickets for the bleachers went on sale at 9 a.m. today.

The line stretched for blocks, with many well-bundled fans having spent the night in temperature that dipped to 36 degrees.

Two men began a two-day pinochle game. Others sat in folding chairs or slept in nearby autos while a friend or relative waited in line.

Third in line stood hard-luck Robert Hunt, who spent hours waiting Monday night and Tuesday morning for a pavilion ticket, obtained it, and within an hour, lost it.

Police stood by to halt such operators as a tavern owner who hired four boys to sit in line in chairs, which he planned to sell to the highest bidder early today. Only bonafide fans could hold places in line.

Tickets sold for as much as $100.

Inside the stadium, decorators were hard at work, draping red, white and blue bunting across the grandstand. Others were building temporary press facilities and installing a row of field boxes, bringing total capacity to about 30,500. Standees are expected to swell the crowd to more than 32,000.

At the hotels, it was chaos. The Chase-Park Plaza, where the Yankees are staying, was inundated with sports writers, broadcasters, baseball people and clergymen attending a convention of Catholic charities.

Restaurants were full; it was almost impossible to get a taxicab, and worst of all, hotels were almost full.

Hotel managers and desk clerks spent unending days answering telephones with apologetic responses.

Hotel officials uttered a common prayer: for the Cardinals to win the Series in five games so it will not return to St. Louis next week.

"If they come back here next week the city will have to set up tents in Forest Park," said George Barry, assistant manager of the Statler-Hilton Hotel.

Indian Powwow Ends by Indecisions

CLEVELAND (AP) — Decision postponed because of indecision. A new decision is due Oct. 16 — maybe.

That about sums up what happened after 18 of the Cleveland Indians' 22 directors huddled for four hours Tuesday at Municipal Stadium to decide whether or not the American League club will stay here for the 1965 season.

General Manager Gabe Paul said directors will meet again Oct. 16 "for further study, investigation and consideration."

City Hall expressed disappointment over the postponement. Council President James V. Stanton said directors were using "regrettable judgment" in the delay. Mayor Ralph S. Locher, who headed a Keep-The-Indians-Here drive, said he was disappointed because "Indians' fans would like to know and we are entitled to know."

The Indians' franchise is being wooed by Seattle, Atlanta, Oakland and about eight other cities, which have not been named.

It is believed the postponement will give civic groups a chance to continue their campaign to sell 4,500 advance season tickets for next year. Paul said the Oct. 16 date is "definitely not a deadline" to reach the ticket goal, which would amount to an advance sale of about $900,000.

Paul estimated the Indians lost a total of $2.2 million in 1963 and 1964.

Seattle, also promoting a ticket drive, has sold 2,300 season tickets, which amounts to $700,000. A spokesman for the ticket drive there said "Seattle has a better chance than ever," after the postponement was announced in Cleveland. Ticket sales, however, slacked off after the announcement.

An interesting sidelight to the Indians' plight was the fact revealed Tuesday that Cleveland Browns' owner Art Modell had offered Paul $6.3 million for the Indians a couple of weeks ago.

Modell would have retained ownership of the Tribe for 120 days, reorganized, then sold to Clevelanders. He would have had to retire from personal ownership since National Football League rules forbid ownership of major league baseball and football teams.

Modell has said it's a good policy to have both sports operating at the lakefront stadium. The Browns have been playing to sellout crowds.

Paul has met recently with City Hall officials to work out a new lease arrangement for the stadium. He wants a one-year lease with an option to extend it another year.

After the directors' meeting, Paul told newsmen "There are a great many other factors which must be considered and investigated." He didn't elaborate.

Besides the ticket-selling campaign, other inducements to keep the Tribe here have included an increase of $140,000 in their television contract, rent reduction on the stadium and an indication from City Hall officials that a sizeable amount would be spent to make the stadium more attractive to fans.

The Indians drew 653,293 in the season just ended and finished in a tie for sixth place. Paul said the club's losses would be "in the neighborhood of $1 million." Earlier he had said the Tribe lost $1.2 million in 1963 when it had a home gate of 562,507.

Paul has said the club needs 800,000 at the home gate to break even.

T-Birds Weaving Magic Around SCL Opposition

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Wasson High's football players may be known as Thunderbirds to their Colorado Springs fans, but to the remainder of the South Central League they're becoming known as the Wasson Magicians.

The T-Birds' latest slight-of-hand performance took place last Friday night when they climbed off the Pueblo turf to march 72 yards for a touchdown during the final four minutes. The T.D., which came with 54 seconds left, and the following extra point provided the 'Birds with a 20-19 triumph over Pueblo Central.

About one a year like that would be sufficient for the majority of teams — but not Wasson's Thunderbirds. Last Friday's teaser merely followed a pattern that was etablished early last year and has dominated the team's conference activity since.

For example, the first four league games of 1963 produced these results:

In the opener against Trinidad, the T-Birds were 54 yards from the goal with 1:41 remaining but drove to inside the 10 and quarterback Clay Chambers kicked a 25 yard field goal with three seconds left to provide a 13-12 win.

The following week against Pueblo South Wasson trailed 6-0 at halftime and had to score touchdowns in the third and fourth periods plus a pair of conversions by Chambers to squeeze out a 14-12 triumph.

The third week brought Central to Colorado Springs where the Wildcats erected a 12-0 halftime lead, only to have Wasson roar back and pull the game out 13-12 when Chambers slipped over on a fourth down play from the one-foot line with 0:59 to go.

The fourth week saw Wasson score only a single second period touchdown, but the T-Birds made it stand up for a 7-0 victory at Grand Junction.

That, in capsule, is a summary of the daffy first half of the 1963 season when Wasson coach Gib Funk, known in SCL circles as the Grey Fox," got a little greyer.

"I thought that after last season we were surely over those kind of nightmares for at least a while," Funk said Tuesday.

Tha's what he thought!

But two weeks ago, when the T-Birds launched their 1964 South Central campaign, they were up to their old tricks. After blowing an early lead, Wasson roared down the field to score with less than two minutes remaining and snatch a 19-14 victory out of the grasp of Pueblo South.

Then, before the coaching staff had an opportunity to thoroughly digest that one, the 'Birds were back at work against Central. And by the time Jim Smith capped that hectic final drive by slipping over from a yard away with 0:54 to go, Funk was nearly mummified on the sidelines.

If the Thunderbirds continue according to script, however, their exhausted staff should get some relief this weekend. Friday night Wasson turns away from its league duties for a final non-conference bout, hosting West Denver at Wasson Stadium. Funk terms the Cowboys "a team about like we are. They've scored quite a few touchdowns but have had trouble winning," he said Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the other six South Central League teams will be battling each other. They'll also probably be devoting some time toward figuring a way to eliminate those final two minutes from the game the next time Wasson brings its magic act to town.

'Luck of Irish' at Notre Dame Returns Under Coach Parseghian

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Strange as it may seem, it's taken the first protestant head coach in the history of Notre Dame to bring the "luck of the Irish" back to the most tradition-rich football school in the nation.

The Era of Ara for the Fightin' Irish actually started last spring when he was detoured off the Northwestern University campus where the offensive-minded coach put new spark into the Wildcats. And through the first two games this fall Ara Parseghian seems to have come up with the miracle drug prescription to cure the ills of Notre Dame, the foremost Catholic university in the land.

For the over 43,000 who will cram into Falcon Stadium this Saturday to view the first visit in this region by the Irish, they will have the opportunity to watch a team that's rated among the best in the country this season. In this week's wire service polls, Notre Dame was listed fifth by United Press International and sixth by Associated Press.

Host Air Force will be a two-touchdown underdog to the visitors from South Bend, Ind., but a thrill-packed game could be on tap since the Falcons have made a habit of coming up with at least one major upset nearly each year and the AFA has obviously pointed for this one.

Parseghian took over for Hugh Devore as the fourth Notre Dame coach in as many years, and he inherited a team that hasn't had a winning season since 1958. Last fall they won only two of nine, and it would seem an almost impossible task to bring them out of the doldrums the first time out.

But that's exactly what the likable new coach has done with a little "luck of the Irish."

So far this fall, Notre Dame has clobbered Wisconsin 31-7 and Purdue 34-15 in a pair against Big Ten competition. It's no wonder they have climbed into the elite of collegiate powers.

LEADING RECEIVER—Split end Jack Snow, shown here kicking one of his booming punts, has been a big reason for Notre Dame's comeback in college football this season. Snow, a 215-pound senior, is the team's leading pass receiver with 15 for 299 yards. That ranks him among the top six in the nation this week. Snow also quick-kicks, and one such boot went for 70 yards and then was recovered by his own teammate to set up one of the scores in the 34-15 win over Purdue last weekend.

Advance publicist Charlie Callahan, however, points out that Dame Fortune has smiled on his team. This was especially true an last week's win over Purdue which gave the Irish its first victory over the Boilermakers at South Bend in 13 years.

Here's the way the five touchdowns came, according to Callahan:

The first came when quarterback John Huarte (pronounced Hew-art) dropped back to pass with his intended receiver off to the left. Well, the pass was slightly mis-thrown, bounced off the hands of the Purdue defender on the right side of the field and into the arms of split end Jack Snow for a TD setup at the three.

The next followed a pass interception by defensive back Tom Longo at the Purdue 47, and ended with a two-yard pass from Huarte to Snow again.

Third was a blocked punt by lineman Kevin Hardy which was caught by 230-pound tackle Alan Page. Usually linemen this huge aren't noted for their broken field running, but in this case the startled Purdue kicker committed himself too soon and after missing the tackle he left an open field ahead for Page on a 57-yard run.

The fourth score was the only sustained march against the Boilermakers, going 76 yards and ending with a 23 yard run by a reserve halfback Pete Andreotti. And then came the clincher. On the fifth TD, Notre Dame tried a quick kick from Snow and the ball traveled 70 yards and appeared about to roll dead inside the Purdue 10. In a scramble between the Purdue back and an on-rushing Irish player trying to down the ball, it was touched by the Purdue player and trailing Phil Sheridan recovered for Notre Dame at the three yard line.

That was certainly enough to convince the 59,000 spectators that the new coach had returned the luck to their campus. But as is usually the case, there's more to it than fate. In fact, opposing coaches have been high in their praise of Parseghian's job with Notre Dame.

One such comment came from Purdue coach Jack Mollenkopf, who described this Notre Dame team as "the most aggressive Irish eleven since the late 1940's.

"It has no breakaway back but it has strong runners like Bill Wolski (195-pound junior) and Nick Eddy (195-pound sophomore) and a good offensive line. Quarterback John Huarte can scramble and has a good, long-passing arm. End Jack Snow has speed to go with bigness and is a fine receiver.

"But it is the defense that hurts you with such big guys as Jim Carroll (225-pound senior linebacker). They just keep coming at you. About the only way we could gain against them was on the quarterback sneak.

"I don't want to take anything away from Hughie Devore, but Notre Dame is much better organized this year. Ara has a sharper knife and he knows where to stick it to make 'em jump," Hollenkopf said.

"Notre Dame should play the Chicago Bears in Soldier Field," he told the Chicago Quarterback Club. "No, on second thought, it should play the St. Louis Cardinals, a good pro team."

In the two games played, the Irish have presented their biggest threat in the passing combination of Huarte to Snow, which has clicked 15 times for 299 yards and three touchdowns. Huarte has completed 54.5 per cent of his passes and overall has picked up 397 yards and four scores.

Running most frequently has been left half Wolski, a stubby 5-11 native of Muskegon, Ill., with nearly a four-yard average on 32 carries. But also getting into the act often have been Eddy, fullback Joe Kantor and his alternate Joe Farrell, both well over 200 pounds.

Terrors, Colts Meet Saturday

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Before last week, one of the opponents Palmer's Terrors would have liked to have played almost anytime was Pueblo South. The Colts had not won a game and looked like easy pickings for almost any team in the South Central League.

The Terrors have their wish — they play South this Saturday night at Pueblo. But the Colts figure to be kicking their heels a little higher this week. They downed previously-undefeated Trinidad, 13-12 — and at Trinidad.

Palmer wasn't as fortunate as the Terrors bowed to Pueblo Centennial, 20-10. And the loss was due to the weakest part of Palmers offense — passing. The Bulldogs intercepted a Palmer pass — the first interception quarterback Larry Williams has suffered this year—and used it to ignite a late scoring drive to put the game out of reach.

This fall, Palmer has used only 22 passes in five games, completing 11 for 125 yards. Rushing has been the mainstay of the Terror offense, getting an average of 186.6 yards on the ground, compared to opponents' 127.8, a tribute to Palmer's defense.

But the defense wasn't as strong last week and the Bulldogs took advantage for 206 yards rushing.

In early practices this week, Coach Bill Westbay has been without a few players due to illness, but all are expected to be ready for Saturday's action. Only continuing casualty is tackle Jesse Bragg, who has not played for several weeks.

Tackle is the Terrors' weak position due to injuries. At one time the top three musclemen were sidelined. Westbay placed regular center Ron Smith in a tackle spot and the 214-pound lineman performed well enough to keep his new job.

If the Terrors are hurting anyplace, it is at tackle. But the return of Rex Bauer could relieve some of the pressure of the line.

South is hard to figure now," Westbay commented after Trinidad's upset. They won't be as easy as they seemed before. They've been under-estimated."

Palmer suffered some minor statistical setbacks, but gained also as Dennis Bair brought down a 26-yard pass from Williams for Palmer's only touchdown, and kicker Claude Spears booted a 25-yard field goal, also first of the season for Palmer.

Spears also helped his punting average when he kicked a 52-yarder, only punt Palmer had in the game. Spears now has a 36.2 average.

Fullback Ben Bryant added 78 yards to his rushing total and leads the team with 473 yards. Bair owns the best rushing average with a 4.9 per carry mark.

Van Sicklen Named Top Lineman

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Nebraska beat Iowa State 14-7 last week and the Cornhuskers probably consider themselves fortunate they don't have to meet John Van Sicklen again.

Van Sicklen plays tackle for Iowa State and his ferocious play against Nebraska earned him the nod today as the Lineman of The Week in The Associated Press poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

Van Sicklen, a 216-pound senior from Walled Lake, Mich., made 11 unassisted tackles and helped on six others. He was such a nuisance in the Nebraska backfield that Cornhusker coach Bob Devaney said afterwards "Van Sicklen forced us to aim most of our plays outside to keep away from him."

High praise indeed from an opposing coach for a usually unsung hero of the line. His own coach, Clay Stapleton, praised him, too.

"I wouldn't swap Van Sicklen for any tackle in the Big Eight, including 250-pound Ralph Neely of Oklahoma," Stapleton said.

Van Sicklen's stellar performance also brought him the honor of being the Big Eight Conference Lineman of The Week.

Other nominees for national recognition this week included:

Tackles — Wayne Tvrdik, New Mexico. Al Atkinson, Villanova. Harvey Catlin, Kansas.

Ends — Ben Hawkins, Arizona State. Bob Bonds, San Jose State. Rick Kestner, Kentucky. George Thomas, Oklahoma State.

Centers and linebackers — Tom Cecchini, Michigan. Jack Chapple, Stanford. Tommy Nobis, Texas. Budda Randolph, Middle Tenn. Steve Sidwell, Colorado.

Prep Stars of the Week

JIM SMITH
T-Bird Dazzler

Jim Smith, Wasson's dazzling senior quarterback, has become the first athlete in three years to be selected as Back of the Week for two succesive weeks by the Gazette Telegraph Sports Department.

Smith, who was chosen a week ago for an outstanding performance against Pueblo South, rated the honor again this week following his brilliant work in the Thunderbirds' 20-19 win over Pueblo Central last Friday. In addition to gaining 121 yards in 19 carries, he completed five of 12 passes for 48 yards, scored twice, passed for the third touchdown, and did the team's punting.

In addition, during a 62 yard drive in the final four minutes that provided Wasson with its winning points, Smith hit on two passes and contributed runs of 11, 16, and 5 yards, all in key situations. He then ran across the touchdown from a yard away and followed that by catching a pass for the extra point that won the game.

Others considered this week were Tom Nigbur of Widefield, Greg Cramblit of Cheyenne Mountain, Sam Zavatti of St. Mary's, Brian O'Neill of Fountain, Danny Wheeler of Manitou Springs, Roger Karolick of Academy High, Bill Doud of Harrison, and Rod Wells of Wasson.

BILL MASSARAND
Cheyenne Star

LINEMAN

Bill Massarand, tall Cheyenne Mountain end, has been selected as Lineman of the Week by the Gazette Telegraph Sports Department for his performance last week in Cheyenne's 33-0 victory over Harrison.

Massarand, playing right end on defense, sparked the Indians on defense, sparked the Indians to their initial Will Rogers League victory. As a safety, he intercepted a Harrison pass and returned it 23 yards, stopping a Harrison drive.

"Bill played a great game," praised coach Guy Barickman. "It was his best game this year by far."

In addition to acting as a tri-captain for Barickman's Indians, Massarand is a starting forward (he's 6-2 and weighs 164) in basketball and plays third base for Cheyenne's baseball team.

Other linemen nominated for the honor include Charlie Steel, Wasson; Jerry Shea, St. Mary's; Larry Hudson, Widefield; Bob Gosline, Academy High; and Tom McBroom, Harrison.

Make Grid Ratings

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two Colorado teams made the top 20 in this week's United Press International Small College football ratings.

Dick Shadwell Keeps Lead In Pikes Peak Point Race

Although he failed to score last week, and was injured to boot, Florence's Dick Shadwell retained his lead in Pikes Peak League scoring statistics with the 25 points he tallied two weeks ago against Fowler.

Shadwell, the Huskies star-fullback, suffered a leg injury during the 13-6 victory over Salida Friday and was slowed down considerably, although he wasn't removed from the game. Coach Ken Livingston noted that Shadwell is a doubtful starter for this week's contest at Leadville.

While Shadwell was stopped in his scoring efforts, the rest of the league played catch-up. Making the greatest stride forward was Manitou Springs' Danny Wheeler, who scored two touchdowns and 3 extra points to total 21 points in two weeks of district action. Fountain's Joe Martinez moved to third place with 14 points, followed closely by teammates Brian O'Neill (13) and Dan Grigsby (12).

Wheeler's 15 points helped the Mustangs take over the team scoring lead with 52 points. Fountain, which had led all year, is second with 48 points, followed by Florence with 44. Those three teams also are the only ones to have scored an extra point this year in district play.

Crowley County finally dented the scoring column as Danny Schulz ran over his team's only touchdown of the season in beating Leadville, 6-0.

Of the top ten scorers, three each come from Manitou Springs and Fountain, two are from Florence and one each from Salida and Fowler. Shadwell holds the lead in touchdowns with four. Wheeler and Fountain's Steve Gerliman have converted three extra points apiece.

St. Mary's Bucs Prepare For Cathedral Tilt Sunday

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Chuck Haering's young Pirates saw their chances of winning the Denver Parochial League football championship become slimmer when the St. Mary's aggregation went under to the potent Mullen eleven, 13-6, last weekend in northern territory.

The loss put the Buccaneers one game behind the pre-season favorite Mullen and DPL perennial champion Regis. Both Mullen and Regis are undefeated in three outings and the loop showdown for these two giants is scheduled the final week of competition, Nov. 15. The Regis-Mullen game will be played at Mullen Stadium and should both teams remain undefeated until that time the DPL championship won't be decided until then.

Meanwhile, the Pirates will have to avoid another loss which would completely eliminate them from the DPL pennant chase. This Sunday the Bucs play host to Cathedral at Wasson Stadium. Game time is 2 p.m.

But the following weekend the team is faced with attempting to break the Regis jinx which gives the Raiders a string of seven consecutive victories over St. Mary's. The Pirates have never beaten Regis on the gridiron and haven't scored on them in six games.

The St. Mary's-Regis game is slated a week from Sunday, Oct. 18, at Wasson Stadium.

The Pirates' touted defensive team the "Outlaws" failed to contain the exlosive Mullen running attack last Sunday in Denver as the Mustangs not only presented St. Mary's with its first defeat of the season, but they dominated the game statistics.

Behind the running of 160-ound fullback Steve Onorofskie, who compiled 143 net yards rushing via 23 carries, the Mullen squad outpaced St. Mary's and ripped through the "Outlaws" defensive net for 237 yards rushing. Meanwhile, the Bucs had to settle for a mere 52 yards rushing as the Mustang forward wall stifled St. Mary's ground gaining mainstay, fullback Sam Zavatti who only managed to pick up 35 yards rushing on 11 carries.

Prior to the Mullen game, the St. Mary's gridders scored four decisive victories over the 1963 State Class AA champion Cheyenne Mountain, Machebeuf, Mt. Carmel, and Annunciation. During those four games, the "Outlaws" contained the oposition to only 270 total yards gained rushing while the St. Mary's offensive team grounded out 813 net yards rushing.

After Sunday's outing with Mullen, the total rushing yards given up by the "Outlaws" nearly doubled in just one game to 507 yards.

Haering summed up the loss by stating, "We simply lost to a better team."

Cowboys, Buffs Bang Heads for Coming Tilt

By United Press International

Oklahoma State and Colorado banged through hard scrimmages Tuesday in preparation for their meeting Saturday, but over the rest of the Big Eight Conference coaches worked on strategy, polish and player replacement.

Coach Phil cutchin said his Cowboys must have a better offense than they showed against Missouri.

Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder, who Saturday scrapped his top-22 system in favor of first and second teams, pushed the Buffaloes through a tough 40-minute scrimmage.

Oklahoma Coach Gomer Jones had his Sooners polish their offense and goal-line defense in an hour-long practice in preparation for the Texas game Saturday at Dallas.

At Manhattan, Kan., Coach Doug Weaver welcomed back senior guard Mike Penrod (231 lbs.) and junior center Rich Gilkison (253 lbs.) who had been sidelined by injuries. Only Penrod will suit up for Saturday's game.

At Columbia, Mo., Coach Dan Devine put the Tigers through offensive plays concentrating on a running attack against the Wildcats next Saturday.

At Lawrence, Kan., Coach Jack Mitchell promoted Ron Marsh and Tommy Thompson to starting guard and tackle.

At Ames, Iowa, the Cyclones stepped up preparations for Kansas with a two-hour workout including a full-speed live scrimmage.

Smith Has Score Lead In SCL

Jim Smith, Wasson High's star quarterback, moved into the lead in the South Central League scoring race last weekend by running across two touchdowns and catching an extra point pass. The 13 point performance gave him a total of 19 points for two league contests.

Smith holds a one point lead over Verle Davison of Pueblo South who scored both touchdowns in the Colts' 13-12 upset of Trinidad. Mike Bosso of Trinidad is third with 13 points and last week's leader, Bob Toof of Wasson, is tied for fourth with Jim Brummett of Centennial. Both have 12 points on two touchdowns.

A total of 22 players have shared in the scoring in the six South Central League games to date. Players from Palmer and Pueblo East have participated in only one conference contest while those from the other five schools have all been in two games.

UCLA's Larry Zeno Top Gainer

NEW YORK (AP) — Is the balance of individual college football power swinging back to the West? Collegiate statistics released by the NCAA today show players from the West leading four of the five primary offensive categories.

Western players have captured the major college individual offense championship in eight of the last 11 years, but missed in 1963 when Miami's George Mira won it. The West seems determined to make up for the lapse.

Larry Zeno, UCLA's quarterback tops the total offense department after three weeks of play. Zeno has gained 646 yards on 108 plays, 33 more than Pitts' Fred Mazurek. Stanford halfback Ray Handley leads the rushers with 386 yards and the runner-up is another Western boy, Washington's Junior Coffey, who has chalked up 321.

Jack Schraub of California, leads the pass catchers and Washington halfback Steve Bramwell is the top punter. That leaves only passing where Louisville's Tom LaFramboise is a single completion ahead of California's Craig Morton.

Alabama's Joe Namath tops the scorers with 36 points and stands fifth on the total offense and passing lists. Tulsa's Jerry Rhome was the top individual performer last Saturday, completing five TD passes against Southern Illinois.

Brundage Again Elected Head of Olympic Group

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

TOKYO (AP) — Re-election of Avery Brundage as president of the International Olympic Committee gives the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States a powerful ally in its power struggle with the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Brundage, the stern, 74-year-old Chicago hotelman who holds strict views on amateurism, won out in a secret ballot over Lord David Brughley, Marquess of Exeter, who takes a somewhat more liberal view of the amateur code.

The vote was announced Wednesday as unanimous but this was on a motion by Pakistan after the sealed ballots had been counted. It probably was fairly close in the 70-man committee.

Meanwhile, feverish preparations went forward in a light drizzle for the opening of the Olympic Games Saturday when 8,000 athletes from 98 nations will vie for honors before capacity audiences. Virtually everything is ready, and the excitement in Tokyo is almost incomprehensible to a westerner.

The struggle in the Olympic committee for the presidency—first won by Brundage at Helsinki in 1952, also in a contest with England's Lord Burghley—may have a profound impact on American amateur sports.

The American team fielded here was put together under a truce between the AAU and the NCAA imposed by the late General Douglas MacArthur. As soon as the games end and possibly even before the two big sports groups may lock horns.

One possible arena is the meetings next week of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which controls track and field. The IAAF recognizes only the AAU, and the AAU may take this opportunity to present its side of the case to the International Federation.

Although the A AU-NCAA dispute may never come before the IOC, if it does Brundage is almost certain to throw his weight on the side of the AAU. He has always been scornful of college athletic scholarships.

Although the AAU - NCAA goes so far as to cause the IAAF to withdraw recognition from college athletes, most American track and field men would be banned from international competition, including the Olympics.

The NCAA, of course, hopes to achieve recognition from the IAAF or at least a further sharing of responsibilities with the AAU.

U. S. Olympic Track Team Racked by Aches and Pains

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TOKYO (AP) — "It only hurts," says Buddy Edelen, "when I run."

But that's a lot of hurting. Edelen is the main American hope in the Olympic marathon. In fact, he is rated the first serious American threat in the 26 mile, 385 yards race since Johnny Hayes won in 1908.

"It's sciatic," Edelen said. "I've had it since May. When I run it sends pain all up my left leg and around the back and down the other leg.

"But I'm still getting in my 180 miles a week. I did 30 miles the other day at one clip — the longest I've ever run, and afterwards the leg hurt so much I could hardly move.

"I suppose I should rest it. But it's too late now. I've got to push it, and not worry about a little pain. This is the Olympics. This is what we've all been aiming at."

Edelen is not alone in the aches and pains department.

Henry Carr, world record holder at 200 meters, has an aching back and it doesn't seem to get any better.

Carr is getting a little edgy about it.

"Everytime I crank down, really pour it on, I get it right across here," he said, wincing as he ran his hand across his lower back.

"I hope it will come around, but I'm getting worried."

Edelen, who comes from South Dakota and has been working in England as a schoolteacher for three years, and Carr, the Arizona State star, are prominent examples of the suffering caused by the long season.

"To tell the truth, all our athletes are hurting a little," said Bob Kane of Cornell, the chief administration officer of the U.S. Olympic team.

"You can't push your body like these fellows have done all year, and not hurt.

"The difference between the boys and girls who made it here to Tokyo, and the ones who stayed at home is simply the fact that these kids can overcome the aches and pains."

Fierce Female Team Will Undergo Reforms

IPSWICH, England (AP) — Members of the fierce female football team of Ipswich today promised their new manager to be ladies as well as players.

"We've promised to behave ourselves," said Capt. Shirley Ellis a 23-year-old paint factory machine operator.

Said the soccer football team's new manager, Dennis Meadows, 35, a local postman:

"I'm determined to stamp out bad behavior on the field."

Matters came to a stormy climax last Sunday after a game with the ladies of nearby Stowmarket had to be abandoned because it got too rough.

The referee penalized the ladies of Ipswich for hair-pulling, arguments, rough language and finally, for using judo grips on their opponents.

The Ipswich manager, a man, resigned.

Said the new manager:

"During the two years the ladies have been playing football they have raised several hundred pounds of charity. I hope last Sunday's riot will not deter other teams from playing our ladies in charity matches."

The ladies of Stowmarket are not deterred.

"They've agreed to play us again," said Meadows." They say they will use the same sweet-mouthed tactics, but they are going to borrow some shin pads."

Capt. Shirley had the last word.

"I'm sure we shall flourish under our new manager," she said. "We're going to get the club on a new footing."

Writers Favor Yanks in Six

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The most popular pick among sportswriters and broadcasters covering the World Series is a New York Yankee victory in six games.

Thirty-four of the 51 writers polled Tuesday picked a New York victory and 21 of them picked the Yankees in six games. One writer chose the Yankees in four games.

The St. Louis Cardinals got 17 votes. No one could see the Cardinals got 17 votes. No one could see the Cardinals winning in four games.

Quarterbacks Raise Big Ten Pass Standard

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Pass, man, pass. That's the battle cry in the Big Ten this year.

The sudden upsurge in throwing in the Western Conference, which has four of its members among the nation's top ten teams, can be pinned to possibly the best crop of quarterbacks in Big Ten history.

Every team in the league has at least one outstanding quarterback and the coaches are taking advantage of the throwing ability at their disposal.

How good are they? So good that senior Tom Myers of Northwestern one of the nation's finest passers the last two years, is the lowest man in the league in pass completion percentage with .413.

All the other starters are above .500 and Fred Custardo of Illinois is tops aith a .741 percentage, having completed 20 of 27 attempts.

Teams like Ohio State and Minnesota, who in the past have shunned the passing game, are throwing regularly. In 18 games this year, big ten teams have gained 3,063 yards in the air to 3,022 on the ground. The present completion percentage of 52.2 is the highest in history. The average of 21.7 attempts per game is a record clip.

A couple of sophomores and general improvement of others is one reason for more passing. Another is believed to be the relaxation of substitution rules which allow downfield receivers more chance to rest and thereby go all out on every attempt.

The sophomore passing stars are Bob Griese of Purdue and John Hankinson of Minnesota. Hankinson already is being acclaimed the greatest passer in Gopher history.

Gary Snook of Iowa, Rich Badar of Indiana, Hal Brandt of Wisconsin, Don Unverferth of Ohio State and Steve Juday of Michigan State have improved tremendously.

Snook has lifted Iowa to fourth nationally in passing offense and Indiana is ninth under Badar's guidance. Custardo, who shared the quarterback job at Illinois with Mike Taliaferro last year, has come into his own as second-ranked Illinois' lone general.

The team doing the least amount of passing is seventh-ranked Michigan which has only 25 attempts in two games. It's not that Bob Timberlake can't pass. The 215-pound quarterback likes to run and so do his teammates—fullback Mel Anthony and sophomore halfbacks Jim Dewiler and Carl Ward.

All four individually are averaging more than five yards per carry. That adds up to a lot of first downs rushing.

Wagon Wheel Council Holds Annual Campfire

The annual Campfire of the Girl Scouts Wagon Wheel Council of Colorado Springs was held at Memorial Field 3. Over a thousand Girl Scouts, friends and parents gathered around the fire for the program. This council-wide event was open to Scouts from El Paso County and some surrounding areas.

Theme for the evening was "Parade of Nations." Twenty-four banners representing nations belonging to the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts were carried by scouts in the colorful costume of the country represented.

A short commentary on the life and ambitions of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouts, was presented. Following the parade of banners and costumed scouts, the gathering sang favorite Girl Scout songs.

The colorful evening, which began with the lighting of the fire to thechant of "Rise Up, O Flame," ended in darkness to the strains of Taps.

A number of American breed associations have requested that action on the proposals be delayed until after their fall meetings to provide an opportunity for discussions by their members.

Comments should be submitted to the Director, Animal Inspection and Quarantine Division, Agricultural Research Service, USDA, Federal Center Bldg., Hyattsville, Md. 20781. Submissions will be available for public inspection.

Germany Market for U.S. Processed Foods

Strong interest of German tradesmen in American processed foods indicates a high potential for exports of these products to Germany, according to the Colorado Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

German per capita consumption of fruit and vegetable juices, citrus products, rice and poultry products is increasing rapidly, according to USDA. Frozen food sales more than tripled in Germany in the last three years.

The West German food marketing system is rapidly gearing up to meet new consumer demands. The number of self-service food stores has increased from 3,000 in 1957 to nearly 47,000 today. Over 200 supermarkets are scheduled to open in Germany this year.

Myron Stratton Herd Achieves New Average

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — A new herd production average for milk and butterfat has been announced for the Registered Holstein herd owned by The Myron Stratton Home, Colorado Springs.

As reported by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, the herd has completed its latest testing year with a per-cow average of 14,397 lbs. of milk and 501 lbs. of butterfat, based on 61 completed lactation records.

Colorado State University supervised the weighting and production testing procedures in cooperation with the official herd improvement programs of the Holstein Association.

This performance level compares favorably to the average U.S. cow's annual output of 7,500 lbs. of milk and 275 lbs. of butterfat. Herd production averages are calculated on the commonly employed, two milkings per day, 305 - day, mature equivalent basis to provide a comparison standard for selection in Registered Holstein breeding programs.

House Takes No Action On Sugar

The House Agriculture Committee last week decided to take no action on an Administration proposal to extend for six months legislation providing for existing foreign sugar quotas, Farm Bureau News reports.

It appeared certain that Congress would adjourn without passing any sugar legislation to assist domestic producers in marketing their sugar. This means that sugar will be added to the list of commodities — wheat, cotton, feed grains, and wool — for which legislation must be considered by Congress in 1965.

Before the House Agriculture Committee made its decision not to report a sugar bill, Farm Bureau renewed its request, first made to Congress as early as July, that the committee pass legislation before adjournment "to permit the mainland cane and beet areas to market the permit the mainland cane and beet areas to market the production of their 1963 and 1964 crops without restriction."

The AFBF Board of Directors decided in June to make this request because over-quota sugar has been produced as a result of Secretary Freeman's action in suspending acreage controls on domestic growers when world sugar prices strengthened last year.

In July, Farm Bureau sent a letter to Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D.) of North Carolina, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, pointing out that it would be undesirable to enact legislation imposing acreage controls on the 1965 beet crop.

Guard Against Winter Fires

FORT COLLINS — As outside temperatures drop, indoor fire dangers rise, states O. J. Trenary, Colorado State University extension agricultural engineer.

National Fire Protection Association records show that cold weather always brings an increase in destructive fires, Trenary explains.

Heating systems are mainly to blame. When they are pushed hard in cold weather, any weakness in the equipment or installation may show up. Faulty practices in using and fueling heaters, especially portable kerosene units, can also mean trouble.

To reduce fire hazards as well as fuel bills, all furnaces and heaters need a periodic cleaning and check-up, the CSU specialist recommends. Flue pipes should be kept clean and free of holes and weak spots. Make sure they are well - supported and spaced far enough from nearby surfaces to prevent overheating. Check chimneys for cracks and loose bricks, and if used for coal or wood fires, a yearly cleaning is a must.

Refueling portable oil heaters calls for extra care. Trenary cautions. Never fill while they are burning or still hot, and avoid overfilling. Keep portable heaters out of halls and away from doors or stairs where they might block escape.

If your heating equipment — and your handling practices — are not already checked and ready for winter, get busy now during Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 4-10), the CSU specialist urges.

It Takes Less to Make One Fat Now

It doesn't take as many calories to maintain the human body as we once believed, reports the National Live stock Producer. Recommended daily dietary allowances have been revised, mostly downward, by the National Research Council's Food and Nutrition Board.

The daily requirment to maintain the body of a 45 - year-old man of average height and weight was reduced from 3,000 to 2,600 calories.

The caloric level for a 25-year old man was lowered from 3,200 to 2,900 and for a 25-year-old woman, it was reduced from 2,300 to 2,100 calories.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market nosed higher early this afternoon after a slow start. Trading was moderate.

However, the advance was irregular. It mostly reflected strength in selective issues — among these Ford Motor, which broke through to a new high.

Generally, the market moved against a favorable news background keyed to predictions of record auto sales despite the interruption at General Motors.

The rubber, mail orders and retail, farm implements and chemical groups all were higher.

Utilities, oils, metals, rails, airlines and tobaccos were somewhat mixed.

In its spurt, Ford cracked through its former record high of 59⅝ by about three-fourths of a point in active trading. Chrysler, nicked in recent days, rebounded about a point on vigorous demand.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 0.4 at 327.5, with industrials ahead .9 and rails and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was higher by 1.21 at 876.35.

Standard and Poor's 500-stock index likewise was ahead at noon — 0.08 at 84.87.

All the averages bobbed around all-time peaks.

Despite the strong showing of pacesetting issues, most of the changes were small fractions, with a good number on the downside.

Prices were higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat was steady on the Board of Trade late today but soybeans weakened as profit taking and hedge selling increased.

Buying of wheat was influenced by firm cash markets and tight holdings by farmers in the Southwest. While the volume of trade was light, there was no particular pressure on the market.

Declines in soybeans came after a higher start. Early advances were ascribed to news that exports of soybeans last week were sharply higher than a week earlier.

Estimated carlot receipts were wheat 1 car, corn 57, oats 5, barley 9, soybeans 90 and rye none.

WHAT MAKES GECKOS CLICK?

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — For its size, the aggressive little gecko lizard is the noisiest inhabitant of the Namib desert in South-West Africa.

W. D. Haacke, a zoologist of the Transvaal Museum in Pretoria, who visited the Namib recently, said gecko lizards "clicked" at night by opening and closing their mouths—"just like barking dogs."

Haacke, with Dr. Charles Koch of the Namib Desert Research Station, found a new species of gecko, called Ptenopus kochi, which he claimed was the noisiest of the noisy lizards. "He has a range of 11 'clicks' in his call and clicks very quickly," he said.

Why do geckos click at night? "It may be a love call or one proclaiming territorial ownership," said Haacke. "We don't know yet but there is somebody at the research station trying to find out right now just what makes geckos click."

WOMAN DIES

DENVER (UPI)—Police officials were attempting today to determine the cause of death of a young Denver woman who died Tuesday at Denver General Hospital. Police said the woman, Emily Duran, 22, of Denver, apparently jumped out of a moving automobile Sunday after she had an argument.

SPABA Declines Stand On City Sales Tax Issue

The Springs Area Bueautiful Association has joined the Colorado Springs Charter Association in not taking a position on the proposed city sales tax.

SPABA, however, reaffirmed its support of the City Council in its efforts to find new revenue sources for "pressing and long over due improvements."

The Spaba executive board, in a letter addressed to the City Council, recommended appointment of a "citizen's committee" to study the matter further. This was the same recommendation of the Charter Association.

". . .the time afforded the public to pass judgment on the proposal has been so limited. . . and lack of factual material available on this and particularly alternative measures," the letter said, that the board had a "feeling of inadequacy to give an informed opinion."

They commended the City Council for "it's recognition of the need for new and additional sources of revenue to finance pressing and long over due improvements required to keep pace with the city's expanding area and population."

The board said it had previously said such improvements necessarily impose obligations on all citizens to share in such costs and that such impositions will never be "universally popular nor even uniformly equitable."

SPABA said they would not take a position "at this time" on the sales tax because they represent an area rather than a strictly city organization. They said there "appeared to be a question of the propriety of speaking for all members on a tax matter."

SPABA recommended that the council defer action on the proposed sales tax and have the Citizens' Committee report back with recommendations at the "earliest possible date consistent with a thorough going study of needs, both near and long term."

They said the committee should consider all sources of new revenue, including the sales tax and alternative measures along with possible economic effects upon the city.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR Friends:

When you buy a box of something that says "Press in here to open . . ."

Don't waste a fingernail.

T'aint worth it.

Pick up an opener (commonly called a beer can opener, but I have never figured out "why" since we use it for a thousand other things!) and use it on the box. Works beautifully.

This includes boxes of rice, cream of wheat, laundry soap, etc.

Save those fingernails. You might just need them for something else! —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

If you are tired of untangling rubber bands and untwisting metal bands on food in plastic bags for the freezer, try using bobby pins.

After pressing the air out of the bag, I fold the two sides inward to the width of a bobby pin and then slide the pin on the bag.

And it's just a snap to take off- —Nancy Jane

Dear Heloise:

After struggling for years to clean baked - on cheese from frying pans (after making cheeseburgers), I finally had an inspiration . . . use the kitchen scissors to make rounds of those square cheese slices!

The remnants of cheese can be wrapped and saved for spaghetti sauce or what-have-you. —Former - Cheeseburger-Hater

Dear Heloise:

As I take diapers out of the washer, I shake each one and lay it across my left arm. If diapers have folding lines on them, I arrange the same lines together as I lay them across my arm. This cuts time in half at the clothesline.

Then I hang five diapers together, another five, and on down the line.

When I take the diapers down, I take the first five and turn the tops to the next five, and so on, until I have removed all of them.

This way, the diapers are all together, straight, and smooth. They are ready to be laid on a flat surface to fold and I don't have to keep reaching for another diaper, smoothing it out, and then folding it. —Ann Lachney

Dear Heloise:

Instead of throwing away rubber spatulas (or bowl scrapers, as I call them) when they become ragged and the rubber starts breaking off . . . simply trim the spatula with a pair of good scissors and you will have a new one . . . a little smaller, but useable again. —Grace Rasch

Dear Heloise:

I put a knitted coaster (the type used on drinking glasses) on the bottom of my husband's shaving cream to prevent rust on the sink when he forgets to put the cream away. —Evelyn Jenkins

LETTER OF LAUGHTER:

Dear Heloise:

So, all right, I cleaned my kitchen drawers this morning first thing. I discarded the extra bottle openers, as you suggested, and a few other things went by the board, too.

I went you one better though. I put a date on the clean paper when I put it in the bottom of the drawer. I bet we would all be amazed how often ("or how seldom") we clean those drawers when we look at the previous date! —M. M.

Dear Heloise:

When making pie crust for pies, I always save the little extra pastry left over and add cake coloring to match the filling. I make it into little balls and space them about two inches apart around the edge of the crust.

This really makes for a "cutie pie." —Margaret Zealy

Dear Heloise:

When I have half a grapefruit to put in the refrigerator, I cap the cut side with a plastic lid from a coffee can. It just fits.—Ruby

Opening lead: Three of ♣

A player holding four trumps will usually appreciate the advantage of playing a forcing game on the declarer for, if the latter can be ruffed down repeatedly in the trump suit, he is apt to lose control of the hand. That this diagnosis can also be made by the defender who is short in trumps is not nearly so well understood. Today's hand offers an interesting case in point.

The first two rounds of bidding were routine. When North raised diamonds, South was not in position to try notrump lacking a club stopper, and he could not support spades with only a doubleton; he, therefore, rebid his hearts. North was reluctant to quit and, since notrump was out of the question, he carried on to four hearts. The queen and one is considered to be adequate support for a rebid suit.

West opened the three of clubs. East put up the ace and continued the suit until the third round which South ruffed. A small heart was led to dummy's queen and East played the ace. There was no appealing shift in sight, so he exited with a heart. Declarer proceeded to draw the remaining trump and, though he was obliged to use up all of his hearts in the process, he was all aces and could readily claim the rest of the tricks.

East had been a bit premature in taking off the ace of trumps. It should have been apparent, from South's failure to rebid his original suit immediately, that he probably had only five hearts and West had four. When declarer is forced on the roundofclubHTHT884RETE T third round of clubs, his trump holding becomes reduced to the same number held by his opponent. If East waits until the second heart lead to take his ace, he will be able to force South's trump holding again with another round of clubs. This play will establish a second heart trick for West, and declarer goes down to defeat.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Grin and Bear Him!

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a very "clean" person so maybe I shouldn't complain, but every time he comes in from the yard, he washes his hands in the kitchen sink and dries them on my dish towel! I have complained in vain so many times that I have just stopped mentioning it. After he's dried his hands on the dish towel I throw it in the laundry and put out a fresh one. Last night he pulled a stunt that beat everything. Our little dog came to the back door with muddy feet, so my husband picked her up, stood her in the kitchen sink and washed her feet off— What do you do with a guy like that? —M. O.

DEAR M.O.: Just love him! He sounds like a honey. What's a few more dish towels in the wash, and the small task of washing the sink when it's done in the interest of keeping the peace?

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a mother who would invite the neighborhood children to a birthday party for her little boy, place a big beautiful birthday cake in the center of the table, and then serve eight wide-eyed, drooling children cupcakes? When one of the children asked why they didn't get any of the birthday cake, the mother said, "We are saving it for a family birthday party tonight." —HEARD ABOUT IT

DEAR HEARD: Poor woman! She didn't have sense enough to know that the birthday cake could not have been enjoyed nearly as much by the "family" as by those children.

DEAR ABBY: We are identical twins and we can sympathize with the twins who wrote to say how much they disliked being called "Twin" or "Twinny." Also, we agree, it is tiresome to have people look right at two people who look like two peas in a pod, dressed exactly alike, and then ask, "Are you twins?" My sister and I thought up a good answer. When someone asks, "Are you twins?" we reply, "No, we are triplets, but only two-thirds of us are here." —TWINS IN FORESTVILLE, N. Y.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of twins and I wish I had a dollar for every time a stranger asked me, "Are they twins?" I finally got so bored with that supid question that I replied, "No. You see, I have two husbands." —VIRGINIA

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a girl who has made just one mistake in her life should be married in white? —THE GIRL

DEAR GIRL: No. Don't make two.

LOOKING AT HOLLYWOOD

ANN SOTHERN TO GET

HOLLYWOOD — Ann Sothern gets back to comedy and glamor with Lucille Ball in November. They'll do three shows, with Ann playing a hometown character who marries a count, lives in Europe, then, when the old boy pops off, comes home broke but very grand and moves in with Lucy, who decides to go social, too.

Tish Sterling will be on a Hitchcock show the 12th; her mother, Ann, does one the following week. Tish is studying with Jeff Corey and so's her mother. "As far as her career is concerned," says Ann, "She'll have nothing to do with me. She's right. She's determined to make a career on her own. It's a terrible onus to be referred to as the child of a well-known parent."

The wedding of John Wayne's acting son, Pat, and pretty Peggy Hunt is off. They're still friends but had some problems they couldn't work out. Peggy decided it was better to resolve it now than after the ceremony. Duke will be out of the hospital next week. He is getting along great, but won't go back to work for some time. How Pilar will keep him quiet is her giant problem.

Diane Baker played the other woman long enough, and now gets a break opposite Gregory Peck in "Mirage" at Universal. The picture is set in New York with Greg playing a nuclear scientist and Diane is lady love.

Louise Dresser, a great friend, celebrates her 86th birthday tomorrow in Glendale, Cal. For six years she's tried to locate Madge Bellamy, who played her daughter in "Mother Knows Best." If any reader knows where she can be found, he'd be doing us a great favor.

Tony Curtis will crusade for cooperation among our major studios to help each other abroad: "If we had one central unit to help locationing film companies, we could save ourselves millions and wouldn't look like idiots so often." "The Great Race" came out fine on its 10 weeks location in Europe (Paris, Salzburg, Vienna). They took 50 people over. Tony says: "The only way to make an American picture abroad is with an American crew. We finished one day early in each city." The picture has ten more weeks to go — will cost 10 million dollars. Tony did a double take when he passed a French studio and saw them building an American town: "It looked just like Kansas."

Humphrey Says Barry Wants Juvenile Game

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey contended today that Sen. Barry Goldwater "wishes to back the Soviet Union into a corner where its only alternative would be retreat or nuclear war."

The Republican presidential nominee, Humphrey said, does not seem to realize that "such juvenile games of nuclear 'chicken' will eventually result in annihilation of both players."

Humphrey, in remarks prepared for a United Press International editors and publishers meeting, said there is no such thing as quick and total victory.

"No rational leadership can provide us speedy escape from problems which demand prolonged and costly effort for solution," Humphrey said.

Humphrey, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, returned to Washington for his address after making his third swing through Ohio for the Johnson-Humphrey ticket.

He visited Columbus and Toledo and the senator and his staff described themselves as extremely pleased with the reception, the reports on election prospects and the crowds.

Crowds, however, are a mystical factor in judging a candidate's popularity. As Humphrey has noted himself, the late John F. Kennedy drew some of his biggest audiences in 1960 in Ohio but lost the state.

A rally at Toledo sounded more like a Beatle concert than a political peop meeting.

Humphrey, in his address to the editors today, paid tribute to Republican contributions to bipartisan foreign policy.

But Goldwater, he said, has "drastically departed from the tradition of his party."

He said the Arizona senator's vote against the limited nuclear test-ban treaty was "hardly surprising."

"For astounding as it may be," Humphrey said, "Sen. Goldwater seems to believe that the escalation of international conflicts will bring peace."

"And in so believing," Humphrey added, "he has talked the language of nuclear irresponsibility."

Insurance Prober's Car Struck, Too

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) —Mrs. Glenn H. Woolley was on a special city committee today to study a phase of insurance coverage.

She went to City Hall Tuesday to learn why the city would not pay for car damages received when a police car struck her parked auto. The City Council explaind that th city does not have insurance to cover damage caused by governmental functions.

Mayor George Shirk was sympathetic, but not very helpful. He said the city should look into the possibility of buying insurance for smaller claims and then named Mrs. Woolley to a committee to confer with the city counselor.

There are 75 ticket booths and 89 turnstiles at the eight gates of the New York World's Fair.

Coach Employs Camera For Diving Practices

Tokyo (AP)—British diving coach Wally Orner is using a polariod camera to show his Olympic divers their mistakes.

He snaps the divers as they leave the board. By the time they have climbed from the water, Orner has taken the already developed picture from the camera and can pinpoint wrong moves in their positioning.

The camera belongs to Orner personally but the British Olympic Swimming Association has recognized its good use and is footing the bill for the film

DECISION FINAL

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Civil aeronautics Board Monday made final an examiner's initial decision allowing Frontier Airlines to suspend service to Pueblo, Colo. The CAB said, however, it needed more time to determine if it will review another finding in that decision which ruled Frontier should serve Steamboat Springs, Hayden and Craig on its Denver-Salt Lake City route. The CAB set Nov. 1 as the effective date for Frontier to cease service at Pueblo, but said the airline could end operations earlier if possible

Nixon Discourages Cabinet Speculation

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Monday night he would discourage speculation on his getting a cabinet post, should Sen. Barry Goldwater become president.

At a news conference here Nixon was asked about a report that Goldwater had mentioned him as a possible future secretary of state.

He said he "had given no thought to the possibility of Cabinet appointment," but added, "I have been interested in public office.

"I would discourage speculation in that respect. Right now were concentrating on winning the election for the Republican party."

Nixon, on a 36-state trip in support of the GOP, charged that the election of President Johnson "will lead to retreat, defeat and surrender and could lead to war."

Nurses Appeal To Ringo to Lose Tonsils

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — British nurses appealed today to Beatle Ringo Starr to have his tonsils out. Otherwise, they said, children may balk at losing theirs.

The appeal came from London's Whittington Hospital, where Beatle thereapy is part of the regular treatment in the children's wing.

Huge pictures of the Furious Four have been painted on walls and ceiling of the children's wards and in the operating theater.

"They soothe the kids," a nurse said.

"Doctors tell the children to point out their favorite Beatle while they are giving injections. It really does help calm them.

"It can be a terrifying experience for children to be wheeled into an ansthetic room full of unfamiliar masked figures and frightening instruments.

"But most children know and love the Beatles, and the pictures help reassure them."

Ringo came back from the group's last American tour saying he had tonsillitis and would undergo surgery. Now he says he is having second thoughts because to remove his tonsils might remove the distinctive croak from his voice.

"We can see the trouble ahead," said the nurse. "Ringo says he won't have his tonsils out and the children might want to copy him."

Hell Has Been Bought By California State

HELL, Calif. (AP) — Hell didn't get into the datelines very often and this may be the last time you'll see it.

Hell has been bought by the state of California because it was cheaper to acquire its 300 acres and service station — for $75,000 — than to build an overpass for a freeway extension.

So Hell is going to be paved, with asphalt and good intentions.

One of Hell's claims to fame was that so many traffic accidents occurred in the vicinity. way.

Hell is — or was — about 50 miles west of the Arizona border in the Colorado desert. Charles Carr founded the town, consisting of a service station and his home, 10 years ago.

Daytime summer temperatures in Hell are well above 100 degrees and there are fw places in the country that are hotter than —.

Outside Reading List Set for Science Majors

The political science department at Colorado College has established a required outside reading list of 16 books for political science majors.

None of the books on the list are assigned in any of the departmental courses. However, the comprehensive examinations given seniors in the final semester, will include essay questions dealing with material covered in the required books.

Prof. J. Douglas Mertz, chairman of the political science department at Colorado College, said the list was designed to teach students to "think like political scientists and to be acquainted with some of the basic concepts and ideas of the authorities in the field."

The list includes Gabriel Almond's "The American People and Foreign Policy," Stephen S. Bailey's "Congress Makes a Law," James McG. Burns "The Deadlock of Democracy," Angus Campbell's "The American Voter," Benjamin Cardozo's "The Nature of the Judicial Process," Inis Claude's "Swords into Plowshares," Carl J. Friedrich's and Zbigniew K. Brzezinski's "Totalitarian Dictatorship and Autocracy," Harold D. Lasswell's "Politics: Who Gets What, When, How," Walter Lipmann's "The Public Philosophy," "The Federalist," Robert G. McCloskey's "The American Supreme Court," Hans J. Morgenthau's "Politics Among Nations," Richard E. Neustadt's "Presidential Power," Herbert Simon's "Administrative Behavior," Sheldon S. Wolns " Politics and Vision," and Roland Young's "Approaches to the Study of Politics."

Not Much Time Left for Special Voting

By GLENN URBAN

Political Writer

If you are going to vote by absentee ballot or take advantage of the special six-month provision of voting for the president and vice president, you don't have too much time left to make up your mind.

This year, for the first time, Colorado has a law that allows people who have not lived here a full year to vote only for president and vice president if they have lived here for six months.

People in that category may vote only at the office of the county clerk and recorder in the county office building.

The election period for that category of voter is from Oct. 19 through Oct. 30. Voters who wish to participate in the election in this way must be registered and registration for all voters ends on Oct. 14.

Mrs. Virginia Goodsell, elections clerk in the office of County Clerk Mrs. Harriet Beals, said that in the first week of the two-week voting period, hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. through Saturday, Oct. 24, and that hours will be from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. the final week.

The absentee voting period for those who can get to the county office building will be during the same period.

Principal hardwood species of trees used commercially are oak, maple, gum, ash, beech, birch, pecan, hickory, yellow popular, walnut and mahogany.

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

U.N. Smuggles Guns

We have said all along that the United Nations is a mischief-making organization.

If proof were needed, examine the recent report from Nicosia, Cyprus, where embattled Turks and Greeks are fighting over their respective real estate holdings.

According to an Associated Press dispatch, five Swedish soldiers, flying the U.N. flag, were caught red-handed smuggling guns in to the Turks.

"The situation could not be more serious," said a U.N. officer, "especially at the time when we are trying to persuade the Cyprus government through the Security Council to grant our forces complete freedom of movement."

It was officially confirmed that the U.N. force had put the five Swedes ashore with two carloads of arms. They were picked up at a roadblock.

General George Grivas, commander of the Greek forces, said that the U.N. was principally responsible for running arms into the hands of Turks.

This particular incident is remindful of the U.N. debacle in the Congo. The war there was made to U.N. specifications. What is one to believe about the beleaguered island of Cyprus?

As we have pointed out for some time, the U.N. is a war-making, not a peace - making, agency. It is obviously involved in trying to remake the map of the world according to some central zoning and planning ideas as to how the geography of the world should be divided.

We are not trying to side in with the Greeks against the Turks. So far as we can tell, the entire Cypriot affair is wholly unjustified. Both Greeks and Turks have been incited by their respective governments to make war against the nationals of the other country. Cyprus has been occupied for years by both Turks and Greeks. Apparently, the U.N. would like the island to belong entirely to Turkey and is doing its part to make this come true.

At base, here, is a primary misunderstanding about ownership of property.

If the property on Cyprus were owned entirely by private persons, regardless of their nationality, there would be no cause for war. But the idea persists that nations (governments) have some kind of prior claim to all kinds of real estate.

This idea, without a doubt, stems from the ability of governments to tax real estate. And it follows that if either Greece or Turkey can oust the other, the taxing power of the respective victor will be enhanced.

But this whole affair now emerges for what it is, a program engineered to advance government. . .one government or another. . .as a major holder of real estate. The rights of certain nationals, depending on who wins, are to be destroyed in the interests of a political cabal.

It is certainly unnecessary to point out that the U.N. can get all kinds of reputation for offering to provide peace in areas where its own actions have assisted in setting men to war.

As we see it, regardless of which side wins the war, harm will have been inflicted on the private property owners.

The same general condition pertained in the Congo and in other areas where the U.N. stirred up animosity and hatred that led to war. When people are deluded into believing that some particular government can make them more prosperous, they are prone to follow the dictates of their government political heads.

The truth is that men obtain peace and prosperity when they forego government solutions to problems and go to work. But men don't like to believe this. They prefer to believe that government has some magic formula by means of which, if only their government is "democratic" or "popular" or "rich," their personal lives will be enhanced. Alas, it is not so.

The human record is not very inspiring where men turn to governments to solve problems. By doing this, human beings always experienced a major amount of starvation. It was only in recent years, notably in these United States and on the Western rim of Europe, where men went to work in the market place and stopped looking to government for solutions, that the rise of standards of living occurred.

Starvation and privation are overcome by work in the market, not by political chicanery.

But at least, in the instant case, the U.N. has been revealed for what it is. If that fact can serve to enlighten the people in Cyprus so they no longer seek political solutions, then a good end will have been served.

Forced View

It is wrong for some men to force their views on other men, even though a majority votes in favor of the process.

Decline of the Average

Man's search for a "sure thing," a guarantee that everything will be as each man wants it to be, is undoubtedly at the root of much of his progress. But when man begins to employ the agency of force to compel others to guarantee his own well-being, trouble of a serious kind ensues.

Perhaps the best way to illustrate this point is contained in the following example:

Let us suppose a school room of thirty pupils. Experience indicates that of this thirty, the bulk of them will obtain a "C" average. Further, if all grades were averaged out, something close to a "C" would pertain. That is, the number of "A's" would just about be offset by the number of "F's"; the number of "B's" by the number of "D's," and so on.

Behaviorists are correct when they suggest a pattern of human behavior in groups. The problem they face is that no one can predict just which pupil will obtain which mark. Individual human action cannot be predicted. And we are always dealing with individuals, not with groups.

But let us suppose that a kindly school teacher, intent on seeing that every pupil was promoted, issued a gurantee that everyone in the class would get a "C." On the surface this would appear justifiable when the total amount of work to be done by the group is considered. The total "production" of the class, as such, is going to average out at a "C" under competitive conditions. So why not eliminate the competition and guarantee the "C" to everyone?

Very well, a "C" has been guaranteed. Now what happens to the "A" student? It makes no difference whether he does exceptionally fine work now or not. He cannot earn more than a "C" no matter how he tries. Why should he work as hard for a "C" as he did before? There is no reason to do so. The "A" work in the class will disappear.

What of the "B" student? The same will be true for him. He can't win any distinction by trying hard. He is going to get a "C" no matter what. "B" work will disappear.

But what of the "D" student? He is one supposedly to be benefitted. But he is going to get a "C" even if he does far less than "C" work. Even he will stop trying. The same is true of the "F" student. There is no reason for any of them to put forth effort. They will be rewarded the same as all others in the class.

The effort put forth by "A" and "B" students will now descend to the "C" level. The effort put forth by the "D" and "F" students will also drop or be sustained at the lowest level in the class.

But what of the "C" students? They are going to get their reward even if they don't do as much as they have done before. Therefore, the tendency will be for their work to decline, also.

The standards of the class will drop all the way around. What was formerly "C" work will drop to "D" or below, which will now be the new class average.

To overcome this obvious decline, the teacher will have to give "C's" where formerly only "D" or "F" were awarded.

In time, the entire standard of the class will reach the "F" level. And there will be no reason to increase it.

This is the inescapable result of seeking to guarantee a standard for everyone not on the basis of what is produced but on the basis of what it would be nice to have as a guarantee.

The only real security and the only real guarantee any of us can ever have is that which we, ourselves, individually produce. All nature is competitive. Life itself is a struggle. Those species which do not struggle successfully against other species, will soon become extinct.

Socialism (equal sharing of the wealth by force) is only possible so long as some persons produce so much that their wealth can be taken by force for redistribution. When all persons become socialistic and all seek to benefit at the expense of others, there is no surplus to be shared. Man sinks to the lowest possible level and production is then introduced by compulsion. Everyone will be ordered by the state to work where the state dictates, to produce a state-ordained quota, or suffer the state-ordered consequences.

Protection Without Government

By RUFUS L. PORTER

A friend took me to task the other day for insisting that government does not and cannot protect its citizens.

"What about the highways?" he asked.

"What would we do without all the traffic laws, rules and regulations? Don't we have enough accidents now, with all the laws that have been passed? How could we drive safely without them?"

"Well," I said, "aren't the accidents becoming more numerous? Isn't the accident rate rising much faster than the number of cars on the highways?"

"That's true," he said, "and we've got to do something about it."

"Isn't it a fact," I asked, "that the number of new traffic laws and regulations have been increasing at a rapid rate? If laws and punishment were going to end accidents, doesn't it seem reasonable that more laws would mean fewer accidents, not more of them?"

"Yes, but," he said, "if the government can't prevent accidents, who can?"

"Private enterprise," I said, "and individuals and voluntary educational organizations. Consider, for instance, how much the car manufacturers have done to make driving safer."

"Go on," he said. "All they've ever done was add horsepower and increase the potential speed to encourage reckless driving so more cars would be wrecked so they could sell more."

"Did the politicians invent the standard shift and 4-wheel brakes back in the '20s? And did they dream up hydraulic brakes a few years later, and safety glass all around, and crash pads on the instrument panels, and safer steering wheels, and seat belts and the thousand and one other innovations that have made driving not only more comfortable but a great deal safer?

"And were tire chains and snow tires inventions of the politicians? True, I have had cops stop me to see if I was using one or the other, but to their chagrin, I always was.

"Does it make sense to you that the car manufacturers would want accidents to occur and kill off their customers? If they deliberately encourage reckless driving, they are taking a negative attitude toward their business. It is to their interests to keep their customers alive and wearing out cars, not wrecking them."

"I'll admit," he replied, "that you put up a good argument. But I still say that we need more laws and better enforcement and higher fines and longer jail sentences. We need more patrolmen with faster cars and more with unmarked cars, and sterner judges. A lot of guys get off too easy."

"Didn't I hear you squawking when you had to pay a traffic fine last week?" I asked.

"That was different," he said. "The cop had it all wrong. There wasn't a car coming in either direction and I did slow down. But they fined me for not coming to a complete stop. A guy ought to be allowed to use his own judgment in a case like that. Some judges never give a guy a break."

That ended our conversation for the moment. But a little later he tackled me on another subject.

"I understand," he said "that you believe education will help prevent accidents, and yet you are opposed to kids being taught to drive in public high schools."

"Learning to drive," I said, "is a skill that cannot possibly be construed as instructing the mind, which is supposed to be the purpose of education. To receive a credit, or credits, for learning to drive a car is similar to receiving one for learning to operate an automatic dishwasher or any other appliance. Or learning to milk a cow or clean a barn."

"Who do you think should teach driving, then?" he asked.

"The parents," I replied, "or professionals who conduct driving schools where the taxpayers don't have to furnish the cars and pay fat salaries to the teachers. It is my belief that, if left to their own devices, the car insurance companies would long ago have gone into the business of teaching their clients proper driving methods. It would certainly be to their interest to make sure that all drivers understood all the risks and the hazards of driving."

"Well, now, that does make sense," he said. "Careful driving could be taught by the ones who have to pay for all the mistakes the car drivers make and the wrecks they have. They'd see to it that you learned to drive safely, or they wouldn't sell you insurance."

"It's an idea," I said.

"And a good one," he said.

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper functions of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION No. 595: "Several years ago you had an article in your paper, if I remember correctly it was on the front page, telling about a welfare case that was searched without a warrant. It was taken to the Supreme Court and ruled that the authorities did not need a search warrant. Does this mean that any house can be searched without a warrant, according to the Supreme Court ruling?"

JOE HURLEY

ANSWER: Without more specific identification of the story to which reference is made it is impossible for us to locate and comment on the facts of the case. However, we are familiar with a case in Baltimore which may or may not have involved welfare. A health officer, observing what he took to be rats, entering a private dwelling, knocked on the door and demanded admission from the householder. He was refused on the grounds that no search warrant had been secured. The case went all the way to the Supreme Court, which ruled that in health matters, no warrant was essential. This view was apparently taken on the grounds of the Fourth Amendment that "reasonable" search and seizure is not prohibited. Since a health matter was presumably involved, the court ruled in favor of the trespass. This finding has since been upheld in subsequent events where matters of health have been alleged. The fact is that the government always has had the power to search and to seize and the requirement first of obtaining a warrant is not a protection against search. Rather, it is a prescribed method wherein it can be conducted.

Prosperity — Real or False

By THURMAN SENSING

A very significant sentence appeared as a subheading to a headline of an article in one of our national magazines recently: "Today prosperity is living on borrowed money and borrowed time."

Such a statement is contrary to most of the current opinion popular in the country today. One of the main planks in the platform of the Johnson administration as it runs for reelection is the Prosperity Plank. Most all economists, most all financial advisers, most all bankers, most all businessmen will tell you that we are now having the greatest prosperity in our history.

This question far transcends partisan politics. If we are having false prosperity, if we are having only an illusion of prosperity, it is a question that seriously affects every man, woman and child in the country, regardless of political affiliation or station in life.

Prosperity "living on borrowed money," that is, inflation built on continued deficit financing and continually increasing debt, can only result in steady erosion of the value of the dollar or even runaway inflation — and inflation, it might be pointed out, has resulted in more human misery and suffering in this world than anything short of war, famine and pestilence.

So let's consider for a moment the situation as it is with us.

During 28 of the past 34 years, our government has had a deficit in the federal budget, has spent more than it has received. The current fiscal year, beginning last July 1st, will make it 29 of the past 53 years that we have had a deficit in our national budget, shall live beyond our means. No one is willing to have a balanced budget.

Our budget deficit for the last fiscal year, ending June 30th, was $8.3 billion. The administration points very proudly to the fact that this was about $3.6 billion less than when it was first made up. The administration remains very quiet, though, about the much more significant fact that spending last year was $5.1 billion more than for the previous year. The budget deficits for each of the last four years, which the administration brags about as the most perosperous in our history, total $24.8 billion — the highest four - year peacetime deficit in our history.

We operated under a federal budget last year of $97.7 billion — second only to the peak fiscal year budget of World War II. Bills already passed will increase spending this year about $5 billion.

During the last 34 years, our national debt has increased from $16 billion to $313 billion. The increase in the national debt since the end of World War II has amounted to $44.2 billion, about $25 billion of this occurring during the last four years.

If our so-called prosperity is "living on borrowed money" — and all indications are that it is — then let's not forget from whom it is borrowed— our children. Now, I submit that it wouldn't have been so bad to have spent $97.7 billion last year if we had had it. It would not have been so bad to have been wasteful and extravagant with our own money — but to spend $97.7 billion in a year like last year, when we only had $89.4 billion is inexcusable, to be wasteful and extravagant with our children's money — which is exactly what we are doing when we undergo deficit financing — is a deed of unforgivable irresponsibility.

The interest alone on the national debt now amounts to $11.1 billion per year, the next highest item to defense in our budget. Just about $12 of each $100 a person pays in income taxes goes to pay interest on the debt — and it continues to rise.

The dollar is now worth only 43 cents as compared with the dollar of 25 years ago — and this erosion steadily continues. This is the road to ruin.

It is therefore a serious question as to whether we are having real prosperity or an illusionment of prosperity.

About 200 years ago, when our original states were still colonies of Great Britain, Professor Alexander Fraser Tytler gave a lecture at the University of Edinburgh in which he made the following statement:

"A democracy cannot exist as a permanent form of government. It can only exist until the voters discover they can vote themselves largess (we call it relief, subsidies and doles) out of the public treasury. From that moment on the majority always votes for the candidate promising the most benefits from the public treasury with the result that democracy always collapses over a loose fiscal policy, always to be followed by a dictatorship." (Dictatorship nowadays can mean one - man rule, socialism or communism.)

Professor Tytler was talking about the fall of the Athenian Republic — but the principle is just as true now as it was then. Will this happen in our case?

ANOTHER TAX

To the Editor:

We do not need another sales tax. It's just for those who like to always pocket more for themselves, scheming to get rich. It is no wonder some folks can afford beautiful automobiles, lovely mansions, and high-priced steak dinners.

This is the way the wages of the working class disappears. Always dishing it out; nothing saved or gained and never will.

FEAR OF WAR

To the Editor:

Everyone seems to emphasize the fear of war with the USSR. No one seems to fear domination of our government by USSR. I personally don't feel that war is our problem in our dealings with them. I fear that we will come under their domination. Their stated goal is not war, but that their system will dominate us. They have further stated that they will accomplish this in any way necessary and that war or violent overthrow will be used only as a last resort.

With this in mind, it would seem that our rush toward total socialism as advocated by the actions of the Democratic party is our greatest danger. If you'll look at the words represented by the initials of the USSR — Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, I think you'll get the message. I'm not saying that this political party is any less American than any other but I do say that I don't believe they themselves have looked at the end of the road down which they are heading. Every step toward socialism is a step to the USSR's goal of dominating this nation.

When you add up two factors of a strong centralized government and, further, that it has gone to complete socialism, you come to what, I feel, is a far greater danger to our nation than war itself. I sincerely pray that people will go back to the age when at least some emphasis is given to the individual and his ability to cope with life by himself. With the present trend I start to wonder if anyone is given credit for having the sense to look out for himself. The present administration apparently doesn't think so.

Senator Goldwater's position has been maligned to be that he is heartless. I feet that his position indicates a genuine belief in the free enterprise system and faith in the individual. His position is foreign to the idea of the present administration, but it certainly is not foreign to the ideas that created this nation. These are the ideas that were the seeds that started the U. S. A......FAITH IN THE INDIVIDUAL!

BOOK RE LBJ

To the Editor:

I read, with interest, the article by Jack Anderson (the other half of the Drew Pearson team of Democratic Party hatchet men) when he commented on the book "A Texan Looks at Lyndon Johnson". I thought the article was a masterpiece. By this, I mean that I feel compelled to compliment him and the lawyer, who must have edited it, on being able to successfully smear the author of the book without leaving himself open to civil suit.

This attempt to malign the contents of the book by assassinating the character of the author was admirable. Apparently this method of confusing the gullible or cursory reader works well. It is for this reason I'm concerned enough to write this letter. It obviously has worked in the past, but, I noticed the one thing the article failed to do was to even attempt to deny the facts in the book.

I wonder why?

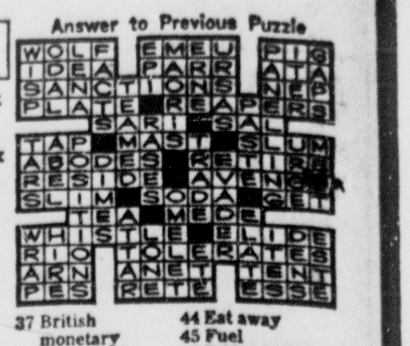
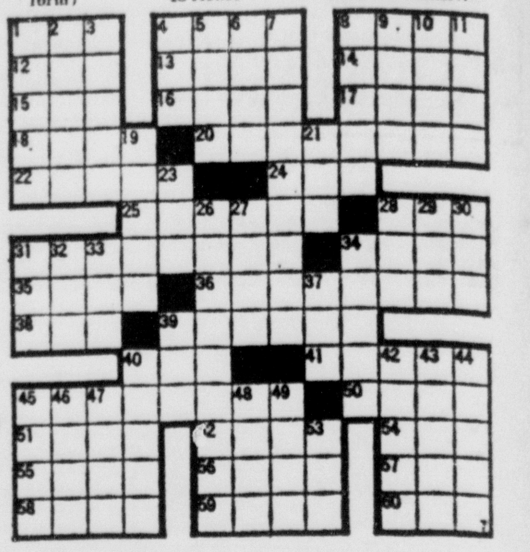
Answer to Previous Puzzle





End of the Season

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

Today marks the end of my second season as associate instructor at the Freedom School. It has been a frequently exciting season, enjoyable and always interesting. On this, my last day at the Freedom School, I can look back on many rewarding moments and tomorrow, Dawn and I and our daughter and son-in-law will head back to Chloride early in the morning.

More than ever, I am convinced that an educational revolution is in the making and that because of this, a condition of freedom, for all who will be free, will eventually evolve.

Private enterprise education, much of it for profit, will gradually supplant the socialist school system which presently plagues all of the people and all of the children, whether they know it or not. Private education will be concerned with educating instead of schooling, with quality rather than quantity, and yet I am certain that contemporary illiteracy will vanish as private education grows.

In many sections of the country, fine, intelligent people are doing what they can to encourage private education because they have finally realized that responsibility and respectability cannot be cultivated in a socialist weed patch of irresponsibility and dependency. Socialism can not long endure the competition of private education and before long thinking people will no longer wonder from what school a student graduated. A conversation lasting only a couple of minutes will indicate whether the graduate is the product of private education or the victim of socialist schooling.

Yes, it will take a little time. Finding teachers willing to teach at the pace which will be required in private schools is a monumental task but gradually this problem will be solved as more and more private schools are available to provide education and methods for teachers. Believe me, this is not wishful thinking. Man's desire to learn will not endure a system based upon the glorification of collectivism and abysmal mediocrity. I have seen the proof, close up.

Obviously all of the people who might like to become a part of the educational revolution will not find the ways or means to fulfill their ambition. My own hopes of being able to create some activity of this nature in Chloride during the winter and early spring months makes a case in point. Financially we were unable to even get started and while I have done quite a bit of teaching, the informality of the situation worked against the possibility of being paid for the time and energy involved.

Many of the educational activities which are making progress stemmed from the Freedom School. Others will follow and progress will become more rapid. There is an atmosphere of calm and sureness which will certainly breed success.

There is, of course, a certain amount of hysterical opposition to the very thought of private education but hysteria rarely prevails for long. "Free education" is a basic untruth and intelligent people are gradually realizing that socialist schooling is the most expensive and wasteful experiment the world has ever known and this does not take into account the get something for nothing propaganda which has been bred, therein.

It is a source of great satisfaction to us that our kids, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burch have been able to enjoy the comprehensive course at the Freedom School. They have a great deal to talk over with their three children — their lives have been enriched. They understand the teaching genius of Mr. Robert LeFevre, president and founder of the Freedom School.

And so, on this last day, I can look from the window and enjoy the blazing autumn colors of Colorado; they seem to symbolize the bright and shining light of freedom in the rapidly setting light of the sun.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Accent on Opera For Symphony Here Monday

The accent will be on opera Monday night, when tenor Richard Tucker will sing with the Colorado Springs Symphony Orchestra at their concert inaugurating the 1964-65 season.

Tucker will sing arias ranging from an oratorio by Handel (Sound An Alarm from Judas Maccabeus) to one of the most famous love songs in all opera: Flower Song from Bizet's Carmen. He will also present emotional arias from L'Elisir d'Amore by Gaetano Donizetti; L'Africana by Giacomo Meyerbeer; and Cavalleria Rusticana by Pietro Masagni.

Walter Eisenberg will conduct the orchestra in three other musical numbers. Ballet Suite No. 1 by Gluck will open the concert at 8:30 p.m. in Palmer Auditorium. This Suite arranged by the Austrian composer and conductor Felix Mottl includes some exquisite excerpts from the ballet music of Gluck's most famous operas. Perhaps the most familiar number of the Suite is the Dance of the Happy Spirits taken from Orfeo Ed Euridice.

The second orchestral piece is Sones De Mariachi by Blas Galindo, composed for the Twenty Centuries of Mexican Art Exposition which was held at the Museum of Modern Art, New York Exposition which was held at the Musem of Modern Art, New York City, May, 1940. The title of this rousing piece is taken from the name of a special ensemble native to the region of Jalisco, Mexico. The street bands (mariachis) usually consist of two violins, a large five-stringed guitar, a small guitar and a harp. The men making up the mariachi play, dance and sing — usually in falsetto voices a third apart.

The final piece to be performed Monday evening will be Respighi's Pines of Rome. In this work the composer uses nature as a point of departure in order to recall memories and visions. One of the unusual features in this score is its use of a phonograph record — probably the first instance of the sort in symphonic music. Realizing that no combination of wind instruments could quite capture the real bird's song (even a coloratura soprano would sound artificial) Respighi used the phonograph.

This brief summary of the music is taken from the program notes of Walter Eisenberg, and can be read in more detail by ticket holders on symphony night.

Historic Copy Of Resolution To Be Presented

A copy of the historic joint Congressional resolution which authorized units of the U. S. Navy to defend themselves against attacks in the Tonkin Gulf will be presented to the Air Force Academy during special ceremonies Friday.

Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Materiel Robert H. Charles will present the resolution, the pen with which President Johnson signed the document, and an autographed photograph of the signing, to the Academy.

The presentation will be held in the music room of the Academy Library at 4 p.m.

Cadets enrolled in Political Science classes, key members of the Academy staff, faculty, and the Commandant of Cadets staff, and officers of the Social Science Division will attend the presentation.

The Superintendent Maj. Gen. Robert H. Warren will acknowledge the presentation.

Col. Wesley Posvar, head of the Department of Political Science, will explain significance of resolution.

Kitten None the Worse for Wash

LYONS, Kan. (AP) — Cora Cross added soap to her day's wash, flipped a switch on her washing machine and stood back to watch the suds rise in the machine's window.

Two eyes peered back at her helplessly. Around and around the eyes went as she reached frantically to turn off the machine.

She opened the door and out hopped her three - month - old kitten, "Casper," none the worse for the wash.

White top, black vinyl interior, Cruse control. Jetaway transmission, power steering and brakes. Original price label $4166. Now $3295.

1964 VISTA CRUISER WAGON HOLIDAY RED IN COLOR

Brand New the only reason we have this Vista Cruiser is that we bought it from a small dealer. The only reason we haven't sold it is because it is Holiday Red. We're still waiting for the 10th or is it 100th customer who likes red. Jetaway transmission, now power with exception of power tail gate. Oh, by the way this is a three seat wagon. Original price label $3627. Now $3195.

1964 "88" FIESTA WAGON HOLIDAY RED IN COLOR

This is a factory Air Dynamic 88 Fiesta two seat station wagon. Very low mileage and a good buy at $3995. We sold this car new and it's now back from one year leave. If you like a heavy station wagon & standard power equipment and you also like red here is your chance to make a good buy at $3995. We sold this car new and it's now back from one year leave. If you like a heavy station wagon and standard power equipment and you also like red here is your chance to make a good trade. Original price label was $5000.

Parents Embarrassed By Honored Players

ALBA, Mo. (AP) — The mayor of Alba (pop. 336) has flatly rejected a proposal that he issue a proclamation honoring this town's most illustrious citizens.

He said he'd be embarrassed by a proclamation honoring infielders Ken Boyer of the St. Louis Cardinals and Clete Boyer of the New York Yankees.

The mayor is Vern Boyer, father of the baseball players.

How about the city clerk; would she issue a proclamation? No, said the clerk.

She's the players' mother.

WE NEED THEM BOTH FOR A BETTER TOMORROW...

New British Musical Is Shown in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — A versatile bunch of antic jesters romp through "Cambridge Circus," Broadway's new boon from Britain.

The revue, which premiered Tuesday night at the Plymouth Theater, ranges from rowdy slapstick to smart satire. The results are highly effective most of the time.

Although the mood is audacious, the show always remains suave and good-tempered. In the main, the 25 numbers — all written and sung by its imported cast of six youths and one lass — lampoon broad targets of human endeavor. About the only topical item considered is the Beatles mania, and that becomes a roaring highlight.

Other memorable pleasures are a takeoff on uppercrust romance, a deadpan resume of elemental mirth and a newscast version of Old Testament events.

The performing credits are shared equally by JKO Kendall and her male chums: Tim Brooke-Taylor, Graham Chapman, John Cleese, David Hatch, Jonathan Lynn and Bill Oddie.

"Cambridge Circus" checks in as a genial treat.

Are They Hiding A Cancer Cure?

PART IV - THE CLAIMS FOR LAETRILE

BY: JIM DEAN and FRANK MARTINEZ

(Copyright 1964 - Freedom Newspapers, Inc.)

Claims for the effectiveness of Laetrile have been increasing since 1953, mostly in "proper channels" of medical papers.

But the lay public got a first person report in a court hearing in Montreal, Canada in June, 1964.

In this case The McNaughton Foundation sought a permanent court order to prevent the Canadian Food and Drug Directorate from interfering with the foundation's Laetrile work in Canada.

The court ruled against the foundation because the foundation had not complied with requirements to secure government clearance for the drug.

The effectiveness of the drug was not at issue, but testimony along these lines was permitted.

One of the physicians testifying for Laetrile was Dr. N. R. Bouziane, who told the court he began experimental use of Laetrile on "terminal" cancer patients in April, 1961 at St. Jeanne D'Arc Hospital where he is director of general and research laboratories. Dr. Bouziane is also on the hospital's tumor board in charge of chemotherapy.

He testified on some of the results obtained with Laetrile, stating first that "We always have a diagnosis based on histology, (detailed and microscopic analysis of tissue). We have never undertaken a case without histological proof of cancer," he said.

The doctor testified that in the first case in which Laetrile was used, (a cancer tumor of the thigh) decrease in pain was effected after 10 grams of Laetrile had been injected into the patient's veins.

"At 30 grams, the patient had regained health, his blood picture improved and his general condition was improved. The cancer in the thigh remained but diminished in volume. The part that remained was a crater surrounded by sclerosis (hardening of tissue). The patient was so improved that he was able to leave the hospital discharged, and his daughter, a graduate nurse, accompanied him, took care of him during his convalescence while still continuing treatment at home."

This case, he testified, had become so terminal that "neither surgery or radiation or any known conventional therapy could be of benefit. Then and only then Laetrile was given."

After the patient was discharged, Dr. Bouziane testified:

"At this moment, an error was committed.

"We had been taught that when the (urine) test became negative, the cancer cells were all destroyed and treatment could be stopped.

"That is why we stopped the treatment when we should not have done so.

"After a few months, the patient experienced a relapse and was again put on Laetrile. I consulted my colleagues and my committee and it was agreed to have Krebs (Ernst T. Krebs Jr., developer of Laetrile - ed.) come and discuss this case and the whole matter with us."

"It was at that time that Krebs learned from our experience that treatment with Laetrile should not stop completely and that it was more logical according to the trophoblastic thesis to continue treatment in a maintenance dosage when a remission was obtained."

Dr. Bouziane testified that the patient survived "many months." But he said they had been unable to overcome the scar barrier which had developed around the initial cancer. He said the patient died from other causes.

In general description of the effects of Laetrile, Dr. Bouziane testified that "in most cases, if not in all, pain diminishes and very often disappears. Those patients who are under narcotics, morphine because there is no other therapy left for them, experience with Laetrile no further need for morphine or at most a very small quantity."

Dr. Bouziane testified that he experienced poor results with leukemia and in those cases in which cancer involved the brain. (Editor's Note: According to Krebs, brain tissue does not contain the enzyme Beta-Glucosidase which triggers the release of cyanide.) But he testified concerning a breast cancer patient.

"The patient was operated on for cancer of the breast. Surgery could do no more. There was a relapse as in most cases. There were metastases (spreading of cancer tissue) to the lung."

"Radiotherapy was then administered by an international authority on radiation. A more than full dose was given, and if my memory is faithful, around eleven thousand roentgens. Again the patient experienced a relapse with pleural effusion (a flow of liquid from the lung area). Cancer cells were then detected in the effusion."

"Nothing more could be done and the patient was moribund (near death)."

Dr. Bouziane then said he was consulted about Laetrile therapy and the injections were begun.

"The effusion dried up. She started improving, got out of bed and became a nuisance to the other patients.

"She was discharged from the hospital. Our lesson learned with our first patient was applied here by giving a maintenance dosage. As we could not find anyone to give the injection at the domicile of the patient, a religious order took charge of the matter and injections were given several times a week. The patient is still alive."

He then testified that there are many such cases, but that there are some cases to the contrary.

He then mentioned leukemia and brain cancer.

"In our hands, on these two tissues, Laetrile was ineffective. This does not mean, however, that the Laetrile molecule has not limitless potentialities. Laetrile has an advantage of non-toxicity; there is room for improvement, work could be done on the drug itself, on the modes of administration and I believe we can reach a point where Laetrile will have an all over advantage over our conventional therapies."

Dr. Bouziane stated that his hospital had many cases that were so terminal that the basic dose of 30 grams was not even given.

"We have established as basis for therapy 30 grams during 10 days or one gram daily during 30 days before any significant effect becomes apparent.

"Many cases, therefore, were so terminal that they died before even receiving one to three grams.

"What generally happens is this. The patients in despair and the doctors in despair after having done everything they can, ask us to try Laetrile. This is not fair nor honest. We cannot make miracles nor resurrections with cases where the basic dosage cannot be given."

Dr. Bouziane is 57. He graduated magna cum laude in medicine from the University of Montreal. He also received a doctorate in science from the University of Montreal and St. Joseph's University, an affiliate of Oxford University in New Brunswick.

He is a Fellow in chemistry and a Fellow in hematology and is certified in clinical bacteriology, hematology and bio-chemistry from the college.

He is also the Dean of the American Association of Bioanalysts.

St. Jeanne D'Arc in Montreal is a 466 - bed general hospital. It has full accreditation from the Canadian Council on Accreditation and is affiliated with the faculty of medicine at the University of Montreal.

Besides Dr. Bouziane, Laetrile's proponents include Dr. Manuel D. Navarro, associate professor, faculty of Medicine and Surgery, University of Santo Tomas, Manila, Philippines.

Dr. Navarro has been one of the most prolific writers of medical papers on Laetrile therapy. His papers have been published in the Philippine Journal of Cancer and read before the International Cancer Congress.

An American physician, the late Dr. John A. Morrone, wrote a paper published in Experimental Medicine and Surgery, Vol. 20, pages 299-308 in December 1962. The paper describes effective results in 10 cases of inoperable cancer. Dr. Morrone was attending surgeon at the Jersey City Medical Center in Jersey City, N.J. He died in March, 1964.

Another proponent is Dr. Ettore Guidetti of the University of Turin, Italy, whose paper was read at the sixth International Cancer Congress in Sao Paulo, July, 1954.

Andrew R. L. McNaughton, whose McNaughton Foundation directs the international work with Laetrile, says there are hundreds of cases in which cancer victims have benefited from Laetrile therapy.

"We understand that not all our reports meet the detailed requirements America's orthodox medical authorities demand, but we believe we have shown enough proof of Laetrile's effectiveness that it deserves a proper, unbiased evaluation. That's all we ask."

The evidence submitted by the Beardians includes the 26 medical papers written by scientists who reported from first-hand clinical experience with Laetrile. All the papers were written after the 1953 report published in California Medicine had decreed the drug was without merit in the treatment of human cancer.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Arthur O'Connell is part of the chase for "The Fugitive" in one episode this season.

Sure we could make it cheaper.

It wouldn't be hard. First off, we could use ordinary tap water. If it's good enough to drink it ought to be good enough to make ginger ale. That would save us the expense of filtering it until it's so pure it's called "polished" water.

And about that ginger. Would it make any difference if we didn't search all over the world for the best? And we could just forget about aging the ginger extract for two years to get the flavor of the whole ginger root. Would anyone miss it? And one more thing: what difference would it make if the amount of carbonation weren't perfect—what's a bubble more or less? After all, it costs money to give Canada Dry Ginger Ale its Special Sparkle. You see, there's really nothing to it. Plenty of companies make ginger ale cheaper.

But not Canada Dry. We can't afford to.
